LOTS OF WORK AHEAD AT B. & M. CAR SHOPS

The December issue of the "Railroad Survey" just at hand, copies of which are sent to every chamber of commerce in New England, indicates that there is much work ahead at the Billerica car shops. It reports from Boston & Maine railroad quarters north and south mean anything, extensive work on new and old passenger cars will be done at Billerica this spring, when it is expected that more workmen will be engaged. Full time is now the rule.

The Boston & Maine is preparing to spend millions of dollars early in 1922, according to the "Railroad Survey." Last week, the Locomotive Car company in New Hampshire received an order from the B. & M. for the rebuilding of hundreds of freight cars, the business aggregating more than $1,000,000. This is the largest order received by the company since the armistice. The last important contract sent to Locomotive was made with the Maine Central last September for $600,000.

Electric Light Customers

Customers may very materially assist in avoiding delay in the restoration of their Electric Service if they will carefully examine the entrance pipes or service connections belonging to them where the Electric Lighting Service is attached to their building, and if these pipes or connections are broken, telephone to one of the several wiring contractors in Lowell to have necessary repairs made so that when our line crews are able to reconnect the service,
everything will be ready for them.

Substantial progress is being made each day in Lowell, and the work of restoration is going on very systematically and with no unavoidable delay.

Please remember the weather almost wholly governs the speed we will be able to make in restoring Electric Service and each stormy day will delay progress perhaps more than for that particular day.

EVERYTHING IS IN READINESS FOR CITY ELECTION TOMORROW

Election Commission Receives Many Inquiries
Relative to Absentee Voting as Result of Misunderstanding of the Law

The stage is set for the final act
in the municipal drama, the city election which takes place tomorrow. The election commissioners say that practically the same arrangements will prevail tomorrow as at the primaries.
There will be two policemen on duty at each booth at all times, from the opening of the polls until the last ballot is counted late in the evening;
one officer will be stationed inside to see that the election is properly conducted, in the interests of all the candidates, and one outside to watch out for improper activities. A record-breaking vote is expected.

Purchase of Cape Cod Canal Favored

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Purchase by the federal government of Cape Cod Canal was recommended today by Secretaries Weeks, Denby, and Hoover, who informed congress that $11,500,000 would be "reasonable price for the property." Later Chairman Winslow of the house commerce committee introduced a bill authorizing the purchase of the canal property for $11,500,000.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

Jury Brings in Verdict of $3250 in Auto Accident

Case

A superior court jury brought in a sealed verdict this morning which totaled $3250 for John M. J. O'Donoghue, who was appointed administrator by probate court for John J. O'Donoghue and who was plaintiff in a suit against the Moulded Rubber company of Boston. Judge Dishop asked the jury for leave, under the statute, to consider reporting the verdict to the full bench of the supreme court.

J. M. J. O'Donoghue's suit for his four and one-half years old, was the result of an accident in which the boy was struck by an auto, owned by the defendants, on Andover street, on May 6 of this year. One count asked for compensation for the death of the boy and another for conscious suffering, expenditures for nursing and medical treatment. On the death count the sum of $3000 was awarded.
May 6 of this year. One count asked while on the suffering charge the amount of $250 was given.

LOWELL CASES IN SUPERIOR COURT

Frank McCloskey, of this city, was sentenced to four months in the house of correction by Judge Brown in superior court at Cambridge today for breaking and entering into the blacksmith shop of the Boston and Maine railroad, off Hild street, three weeks ago and stealing 35 dies and a stock file, pleaded guilty.

Moses Goldstein and William Harold of Lowell, were fined $150 for breaking and entering and larceny. They were also ordered to make restitution of about $3000 worth of liquor alleged to have been stolen last January by the two defendants, and four other men, from the home of Joseph Cayouette, on Victoria street.

Average of more than 250,000 letters every day are readresses in New York from city directories.

5000 OFFICERS IN MAN HUNT

Tommy O'Connor, Murderer
and Two Notorious Robbers Break Jail at Chicago

Former Scheduled to be Hanged Thursday—Police
Chief Charges "Frame Up"

Gunmen Fought Way Down
Five Flights, Past Guards
and Got Away

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—"Lucky Tommy"
O'Connor, gunman and convicted mur-derer, was to have been led today to the death cell in the Cook county jail
to await hanging Thursday morning for the killing of a policeman. Instead he was leading a combined force of 5000 police and deputies a merciless chase, after a sensational escape from the county jail. Four jail guards were overpowered by O'Connor and four other prisoners, but O'Connor was not a killer suffered when he failed to use a revolver which had been smuggled to him.

Frame-up charged
The jail break was characterized by Chief of Police Fitzmorris as a "frame up between O'Connor and jail officials," and the chief ordered his men
to bring in O'Connor, "dead or alive."
Searching inquiries also were started
by State's Attorney Robert Crowe and Sheriff Peters. The sheriff suspended three guards and also offered a reward of $500 for the apprehension of O'Connor.

Jail Rules Violated
Jail Guard Davis Straus, "Daring Dave" O'Connor, the gunman's brother, and several prisoners were to be questioned again today. Straus was quizzed at length but was unable to add anything of importance and was held in a police cell. All jail rules were violated in handling the prisoners, according to a member of the state's attorney's office.

Hundreds of reports were received by the police of O'Connor's hiding place, but no direct trace of the fugitive or his two companions, Edwin Darrow, his cellmate and James La

Smith College Girls Prepare For Careers in the Movies

ANITA LOOS. SHE TELLS SMITH COLLEGE GIRLS HOW TO SUCCEED IN THE PHOTOGRAPHY PROFESSION AND IN MATRIMONY. SHE HAS SUCCEEDED IN BOTH

By JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—More than one hundred of the young women students at fashionable Smith college are going to take up careers in the movies.

This was revealed recently when Miss Louise Lieber of Indianapolis, a student at the school and daughter of the president of First National Exhibition, induced Anita Loos and John Emerson to speak on the movies as a career for women.

These interesting talks were given in the photography laboratory today to those who developed their talents while in obscure positions in the industry, or those who took up a career in the films after they had established themselves in some other vocation.

These in the former class often lack the cultural background necessary to their work. Those in the latter class have the cultural background, but are deficient in their knowledge of the technical details that can be gained only by experience in studios.

The girls at Smith college who are bent upon a photography career do not consider their ambitions to acting alone.

For instance, Miss Muriel Crosby of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, declares that as soon as she leaves college she intends to take up all branches of the industry from scenario writing to directing and that eventually she intends to produce.

Miss Betty Tallon of Ogdensburg, N. Y., intends to take a course at the Beaux Arts or School of Design to fit herself for scene designing and studio architecture.

A number intend to take up scenario writing. Among them are Isabel Stabler of Washington, D. C., Charlotte P. Vail of Cincinnati, Elmer Fitts of Spokane, Wash., and Ruth Freer of Cleveland. Miss Freer also plans to study photography advertising.

The branches of the industry which the Smith college girls intend to enter are acting, scenario writing, directing, scene designing, historical and biographical research, costuming, directing and producing.

Matrimony and a Career

What of the girl who takes up a professional career, in the movies or other profession? Is she to forego matrimony?

Anita Loos had several interesting things to say on that score to the girls at Smith college. She has been writing scenarios 12 years. She is the wife of John Emerson, who also writes scenarios and directs pictures.

"The three most worth while things in a professional career for women," said Miss Loos, "are freedom, the meeting of men who are worth marrying and men and women who are the inspiration of fine friendships, and a certain amount of luxury from being commercially successful."

A Novel Setting

Classic dancers gyrate waist deep in sea-bubbles in "Blind Hargrave," starring Lon Chaney. The set was designed by Cedric Gibbons. However, a similar idea was employed in Frank Tinney's stage show, "Tinkle Me."

Movie Snapshots

"Domestic Relations," Katherine MacDonald's next.

There are 143 movie theatres in the province of Saskatchewan.

Madge Evans is to be starred in "On the Banks of the Wabash."

Fifth Roberts will be Wally Reid's heroine in "Carnegie."

Rudolph Valentino will be Gloria Swanson's leading man in "Beyond the Rocks."

Marlene Dietrich, daughter of Eddie Polo, is to play in a picture to be filmed in Berlin.

This may not be so, but it's worth telling. Cecil DeMille is going to hunt with a falcon from the back of a racing car when he visits Blekinge in Northern Africa.

POLITICS ESCHEWED

Editor Lowell Sun:

Owing to the fact that false rumors have been spread in the city relative to the C.M.A.C. and its attitude towards political affairs, we wish to have it clearly understood.

First—That the C.M.A.C. is a fraternal organization, not a political club and that no politics are ever discussed at any of its meetings.

Second—That the political rallies sometimes held in the assembly hall are not held under the auspices of the C.M.A.C. but under the patronage of the various candidates for office who have visited the hall.

(Signed)

C.M.A.C. BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

CHELMFORD FIRE APPARATUS

The town of Chelmsford received three pieces of fire apparatus Saturday afternoon. Each machine is equipped with two 25-gallon chemical tanks, three foot lengths of chemical hose, a 25-foot extension ladder, axes, lanterns, etc. One was placed at the West station, the other at the South and the third at the East.

BILERICA FIRE ALARM

The North Bilerica fire alarm system which was put out of commission by the recent storm has been restored temporarily. The system was out of commission for over a week, but through the courtesy of the officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., the batteries at the Central station were recharged with current from the trolley wires.

FIRE IN EAST BILERICA

The home of Clarke Burris and its contents, located in East Bilerica, were destroyed by fire last Friday. The blaze, the origin of which is not known, was discovered between 1 and 2 a. m.

CLOGGED BLOOD WITHERS THE BODY

Workers Silk and Weak
From Exertion Take Gude's
Pepto-Mangan

Men and women who toll, either physically or mentally, use up energy. When they overwork they use up more energy, and sometimes the blood gets in a run-down condition. Without rest the blood cannot get back to normal, so that it becomes clogged with waste matter from over-exertion.

The clogged blood virtually withers the body. The strained looks on pale faces, the thin, bloodless arms, the sunken cheeks and necks, the deadened feeling, are the results of stale blood depriving the system of life-giving oxygen.

Workers go to the drug store and get Gude's Pepto-Mangan when they feel weak and run down. They take it in either the liquid or the tablet form. That makes the blood rich and red and drives out the poison. Life-giving oxygen, carried by the little red cells, renews the strength and builds up the entire system. Look for the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.—Adv.

2000 Quit Work in N. Y. Slaughter Houses

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Two thousand employees of slaughter houses in New York, members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters & Butcher Workers of North America, quit work suddenly today and left wagon-loads of perishable beef in front of company plants. A report that a reduction in wages was imminent, caused the walkout, in the opinion of Leo Joseph, vice president of one of the meat companies. He asserted here was no foundation for such a report and declared the employees had an agreement with the union that does not expire until May 16. Officials of the union could not be reached. The strike affected only the concerns comprising what is known as "the big five." Independent butchers remained at work.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Robert Lee Bullard, wife of Gen. Bullard, commander of the Second Corps area, died today at Governor's Island after a long illness.

Richard Bagot, the Author, Dead

WIMBORNE, Westmoreland, England, Dec. 12.—Richard Bagot, the author, is dead at his home here.

Richard Bagot, novelist and essayist, born in 1860, was the author of numerous works of fiction, having for the most part an Italian background, and of other works dealing with Italy and the Italians and various literary and political contributions to reviews, British and Italian.

GARAGE ENTERED; AUTO STOLEN

The garage of C. J. Harvey in the rear of his residence at 1677 Bridge street, Dracut, was broken into between late last night and early this morning and a Hupmobile touring car was stolen. Today the police of that town and this city are making a rigid investigation and hope to apprehend the culprits. According to information given The Sun by a member of the Harvey family, the lock on the door of the garage was broken and removed. It was stated that the family used the car just evening and place it in the garage at about 9 o'clock. The door of the garage was locked. When Mr. Harvey went to get the car this morning, however, he found the lock broken, the door open and the auto missing. He immediately notified the police. At noon today no trace of the machine or the thieves had been found.

work yet to perform in many cases about the city, including the parks and playgrounds, the extra funds required to pay all bills may reach $15,000 and possibly $20,000.

This morning, with the last storm far away and almost forgotten, seemed to be a poor time to talk "storm damage," but The Sun reporter got a surprise. It was learned that Saturday and Sunday, one of the biggest gangs of workmen ever employed to clean up a stricken city, about 160 in all, was sent out. Besides the big double teams—eight of them—there was a large truck and a ton truck, fitted for receiving loads of wood.

Today there are more than 1000 loads of wood on the South common and fully 1000 loads piled up around Shedd park, to be disposed of. A great many Lowell people have taken home loads of this "free wood" and the park department men say they are welcome to all they want of it. What isn't given away will be burned later.

Much of the wood piled up at the skating ponds will be burned there when there is enough ice and the skaters want fires to keep them warm. It is the cheapest way to get rid of the refuse, and will save the city a lot of money.

Many loads of broken wood and tree limbs have been dumped into the river or onto the big refuse grounds, where it will remain until spring or until it has been burned. It has been and will continue to be very slow work.

The big Saturday and Sunday campaign resulted in many side streets being cleaned and much earth away. This morning, another week's work started, with about 16 new men on the job and the usual number of trucks and wagons.

No tree surgery work is to be done now. "This work will come later, when the damaged trees will be taken care of as they should be," Superintendent Kernan said. "There will have to be a lot of cutting and sawing off of jagged branches and many bark tears trimmed up and smoothed over. We started the work now, we'd never get through cleaning up the city, so the work of repairing the trees and preserving them will have to wait a little while longer."

Supl. Kernan said it was an actual miracle that none of the park department workmen were killed by live wires. He said dozens of wires were uncovered in various parts of the city, some having been buried under snow and wood debris. There have been several narrow escapes, but no one has been seriously injured during the storm's aftermath of work and reconstruction.

The Lowell department now has eight expert tree climbers on its rolls. Much new equipment is ready for the week's campaign, with the arrival of four dozen new axes, one dozen large saws, numerous small ones and about 12 two-handled rope saws of the log-cutting type. There was purchased last week and the week before, more than 2000 feet of rope with which to handle broken limbs, tree tops and also for load "holders." Some of the rope is of the half-inch kind, the rest of it is about one and one-half inches in diameter.

The big parks have not been touched at all yet. The work on the South and 24 of these have been brought to justice at one time or another. During the first nine months of this year, Jan. 1 to Oct. 1, 103 actual seizures of liquor were made in Lowell.

"During the past two months, Oct. 1 to Dec. 1, since an agent has been definitely assigned to Lowell, who has been able to secure the active co-operation of the Lowell liquor squad, 45 actual seizures have been made, 44 of these resulting in actual convictions. In other words, during two months practically one-half as much work has been accomplished as during the first nine months."

Supreme Court Decision on Kentucky Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Kentucky law requiring corporations to register before doing business in that state cannot apply to a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, the supreme court held in a decision handed down today.

and North commons alone will take more than a week, possibly. Up at Fort Hill park, there are several days of hard labor waiting for the workmen and tree climbers.

The work at Fort Hill alone will take, probably, two weeks and will cost in the neighborhood of $3000.

Park Supt. Kernan called up Superintendent of Police Welch this morning and asked him if he would notify policemen to report all incidents of damage, broken tree limbs still to be found on their respective routes. The city aims to look after them all, but may have skipped some.

The instructions at once went out to all patrolmen to look for anything of this kind and report it.

"Tyler park damage was severe, but the city hasn't had a chance to get there yet and look things over carefully. The work may take $5000, according to reports that have come in to Supt. Kernan.

Street Department

The situation in the street department has cleared up to a large extent. It will take some time yet for the highway to be in anything like decent shape. And another heavy storm would cause trouble, too if it came before some of the debris and piles of ice and snow that still cover some portions of the thoroughfares was removed.

Saturday and Sunday, large gangs of men were hired for another rush when traffic conditions were not so heavy, and they accomplished much in the outlying sections. About 100 extra men went to work again this morning. The week before last there were more than 600 extras hired, and last week possibly 800. Some of the work-today is hard at it where the "ice-bergs" show. There are huge masses of snow that had been soaked with ice and then frozen. Some of the workmen call them "rocks," and it takes a long time to pick one's way through a little mountain of the stuff.

The big Garford truck that the department uses, is doing excellent work carting away debris.

The sewer department now has two large jobs on hand, which require constant attention and no let-up. There is the construction of the sewer on French street to the high school building, and the work on Hawthorne st.

The latter job has tested the energy as well as the ingenuity of the workmen. There is sewer work here for a distance of 110 feet. Just 310 feet of this is to be laid with 18-inch pipe, while the other 200 feet will have 12-inch. The workmen have been compelled to dig to a depth of from 17 1/2 to 20 feet in order to get this pipe where it belongs. It has been tough work nearly all the way.

Said Assistant Superintendent Thos. F. Garvey this morning:

"With weather conditions as they have been, you can imagine what the men on this sewerage excavation have been up against. We struck a monster ledge there and before making any start at all, discovered that 318 feet of the sewer would have to be excavated out of solid rock. That, of course, is expensive. And this section of rock had to go down 15 feet, too."

The street department is now keeping about 14 gangs of men at work with 39 wagons and dump carts and two trucks. Today the cleaning up process was going along smoothly, and it was also noted that the regular ash collections are being made without a halt.

STATE OFFICER MAKES COMPLAINT

State Inspector of Buildings Angus McDonald appearing as the complainant in an old case in district court before Judge Knight today stated that his office is not receiving the support of the local officials in building matters.

Inspector McDonald stated that the aid of the city building authorities had been solicited in the case in point but that neglect had been shown in enforcing certain rules and regulations required by the building laws. The inspector was asked by the judge if he had called the attention of the building department of the city to the alleged neglect and Mr. McDonald replied he had more than once.

"I shall put class room theory into the running of public affairs," Agar says. "I'll give education away over everything. I'll abolish the spoils system."

SEEK MAN WHO STABBED ROYAL

The police today are continuing their search for a man who is alleged to have stabbed Earl Royal, of 115 East Merrimack street, during an argument in a Middlesex street lodging house, Sunday morning. Royal was removed to St. John's hospital, where it was found he was suffering from three knife wounds in the left upper part of his body. Today it was stated at the hospital that he was resting comfortably and was in no danger.

According to the story related in front of the Crown theatre late Saturday night and after having some drinks together engaged a room in a lodging house nearby. Early Sunday morning the two had an altercation it is claimed, and Royal received the knife wounds.

Russell now has 67 higher technical institutions, with 35,000 students.

John J. McPadden

FOR COUNCILOR-AT-LARGE

A VOTE FOR MR. MCPADDEN MEANS A VOTE FOR A CLEAN AND ABLE YOUNG MAN IN YOUR NEW CITY COUNCIL

Mr. McPadden's splendid endorsement in the primaries indicates his election. It is agreed by those citizens who have met and listened to him campaigning that he is ABLY QUALIFIED to serve in the City Council.

You surely can make him ONE of the six councilors for whom you will vote and in doing so you will be amply rewarded by the high grade of public service he will render.

He has demonstrated beyond question his fitness for the office of city councilor by the clean and impressive manner he has presented his candidacy to the people.

If you wish to vote for a candidate filled with enthusiasm to display honorable public service, possessed of unquestioned ability and a right conception of public duty—then—JOHN J. MCPADDEN MEASURES UP TO THAT STANDARD OF PUBLIC SERVICE.

Signed, William H. Noonan, 61 Sixth St.

FOR THE REASON

That you are assured of a dignified and clean-cut administration of the Mayor's office. You know that strife, disorder, and perplexities will not govern my official conduct,

FOR THE REASON

That you are assured your city affairs will be conducted without sensationalism; but along lines of efficiency and honorable deportment.

FOR THE REASON

That no official act of mine will attract notoriety throughout the country to the office of the Mayor of the City of Lowell.

You have never blushed for any act of mine, public or private, during my tenure of office, which is the best evidence that you need have no cause for alarm or anxiety for the next two years after I am elected.

Two years is not too long for a good Mayor in office; but it is too long for a Mayor whose official acts you cannot anticipate from one day to another.

Remember you are voting for a Mayor not for a day, or a month, but for two years, and under a new charter, with vested powers that can make or break the city within that time.

I will conduct the affairs of the city with calmness, with efficiency and ability, for I know the city's needs and how to proceed.

AGAIN LET ME SAY

Let Civic Pride in your city and institutions of government guide your vote tomorrow, and I am content confidently to await your verdict from this standpoint alone.

Louis J. LORD

FOR COUNCILOR WARD THREE

The voters of Ward Three cannot afford to take chances.

This district needs a man who has always lived here and who knows what the people want, and whose influence will help them to get it.

Louis J. Lord has all his interests in Ward Three. His investments are all in Ward Three. He is a business man whose dealings with people have brought him into touch with a majority of the people of his district. He is close to the people.

Under the new charter you will need just that type of leader. If your representative is not close to you now, he will be far above and away from you when he gets to city hall.

Every man and woman who works for a living should endorse Mr. Lord as their candidate. Do not lose sight of the importance of next Tuesday's election.

On the other hand, letters from men who corrected the papers, which was the main defense offered for the college board, stated that many students are "inevitable and careless, that are average of one word in every ninety is misspelled and that there is a mistake in transcribing one word in every 155."

Mr. Sturtevant told The Sun today that of the number of Lowell students who took examinations last June, only 61 per cent passed. Of the number who had been given consent to take examinations, the percentage was 89. Many of the students fail in the English exams. Only about one-third manage to get through on anything like decent percentages. Only a few who took a similar "exam" in Waltham, 35 in all, passed the tests. The so-called "fresh exams" are liked here in preference to the college examinations. The fall examinations differ greatly from the college entrance list.

Among those who condemned students in round terms for certain work of the past year was S. L. Garrison of Amherst college, who declared that many students fail because of the "coddling process" to which high school students are subjected. He declared that the modern movie-sick generation hasn't the guts to do anything hard, and made it clear that he is in favor of "cramming," by that meaning actually stuffing students full of exact knowledge and of tutoring for examinations.

He called attention to one student's definition of the great Alhambra, which the poor fellow, with "movies on the brain," declared to be "the moving picture theatre in New York." "Strenuous" were described as "mildness from the waist up."

The college board examinations were declared by numerous teachers to be too stiff. Many pupils they declared, lose confidence in themselves and either choose colleges which do not require examinations, or give up the idea of going to any college at all.

Newton and Brookline instructors thought the college "exams" were too long. More "specific" examinations were considered necessary.

RUSH WORK ON CENTRAL BRIDGE

Work on the Central bridge continued all day yesterday and late into the night, as the temperature had risen sufficiently to allow the contractor to pour cement. With a continuation of favorable weather conditions, particularly in regard to temperature, the work on the bridge should be completed within the next two months, but a sudden cold spell or a fall of snow would hamper the builders greatly.

At the city engineer's office this morning, it was learned that even when the bridge is completed, the weather conditions will still have a bearing on the date of opening it for traffic. In moderate weather, only a short time need elapse between the completion of the work and the opening of the bridge, but cold weather will bring an inevitable delay. In the latter case no one was willing to predict how long the settling of the concrete would take, and the six inches or more of surface must be completely hardened before heavy traffic may be allowed to traverse the structure.

Work of this kind, generally planned so that it will be completed before the advent of cold weather, thus insuring its readiness for traffic before the winter season, can impose handicaps, but many difficulties have arisen in this case, and it has taken a great deal of time to overcome them.

To Mr. H. Groh goes the derby, because he is leading the rest. He was the first big leaver to say "Next season I'll do my best."

IMPORTANCE OF A SINGLE VOTE

We believe it was John Stuart Mill who said that there never can be much progress in moral reform until the smiles of the people come to realize that a single sin may work immeasurable evil to future generations, and thus go on in its evil consequences to the end of time.

In a similar way a single vote which may in certain cases decide an election, may be of supreme importance in its consequences to the city. If it should put into office, there is no telling what injury might result or what a loss it might bring to the municipality as a whole. Moreover, the injury or the loss may not be limited to a single year or a single term in office, but may have cumulative consequences to be inflicted upon the community as time rolls on and generations come and go. There are instances of this in our politics at the present hour, resulting from mistakes made by the electorate in past years. They come down as a legacy of evil, and there is no telling when they will be completely overcome.

To avoid such mistakes in the future and to counteract those of the past, so far as is possible, the voters of Lowell in tomorrow's election will have to exercise sound judgment and in the exercise of the power placed in their hands, they will have to forget or overcome whatever petty spite may have been engendered by the primary contests; they will have to exercise patriotism and civic pride in voting for the best and most capable candidates available, so that our next city government may be a credit to our city and bring rewards to the people in lower taxes, lower rents, improved service in every department and better industrial conditions so that the people now in enforced idleness, may find profitable employment. In this republic the sovereign power is placed in the hands of the people and it is exercised by the citizens in the polling booth on election day.

To use that power to satisfy petty spite or for unworthy candidates, would be to sacrifice the highest principle of American freedom, to stab our city in the back and strike a blow at the interests of all the people. There is an old rule that voters may well apply in this case, particularly in reference to the mayoralty. It is, "When in doubt, don't." There is every reason to doubt that Mayor Thompson's opponent would serve the city as creditably and capably as the present incumbent. Hence the course of wisdom and safety lies in re-electing Mayor Thompson.

DON'T BE MISLED

Now that election day is at hand, that we have to choose the city government for the next two years, it is presumed that the voters or most of them have made up their minds as to the candidates for whom they will vote.

For the benefit of those who may still be wavering, we may say a word relative to the necessity of voting only for capable and conservative candidates for all offices. Popular interest centres mainly in the mayoralty contest and very properly so inasmuch as the chief executive of our city for the first two years under the new charter will have the opportunity to set the pace for future administrations.

The mayor's salary is to be $5000 a year, yet not this so much as the power and responsibility vested in that official under the new charter, make it imperative to select the candidate who is more likely to give the citizens an honest, economic, business-like and progressive administration of affairs.

The liquor issue has been injected into the campaign for the purpose of prejudicing the candidacy of Mayor Thompson, but the record of arrests and convictions should be sufficient to refute all the ridiculous stories put in circulation in regard to the liquor business. It should be remembered that every city in the commonwealth has experienced trouble with the prohibition law and very few of them have succeeded in enforcing the law as effectively as has the city of Lowell.

The voters must not be misled by false issues into voting for unfit or undesirable men and this rule should apply equally to the selection of candidates for all the offices to be filled.

The voters are to select their public servants to conduct the city's business for the next two years. Let every citizen do his or her full duty in voting for an administration to be characterized by honesty, decency and efficiency. That will insure success. Any other course may bring failure, turmoil, ignominy and disgrace.

CLEANING OUT CITY HALL

Some of the voters are likely to be imposed upon by the slogan used by several candidates relative of "cleaning out city hall." The new charter removes the present officials and heads of departments automatically so that this task is not left to the newly elected officials.

One would suppose from such language that some of the officials now holding office at city hall were to be allowed to remain and that the election of a particular candidate would turn them out. The men who are to go out of office will go out when their successors are chosen regardless of who is elected mayor. The mayor of the city has actually nothing to do with the removal of any of the officials of the old city government.

The new charter provides that the members of certain commissions such as the license board, the park board, the cemetery trustees, the election commission and the trustees of the public library, will be allowed to serve out their current terms of office and when a vacancy occurs on any of these boards, it will be filled by nomination by the mayor subject to confirmation by the council.

Three of the principal officials, namely, the city clerk, treasurer and auditor, will be elected by the council regardless of the mayor. All the other offices will be filled by nomination by the mayor subject to confirmation by the council.

It is plain, therefore, that the mayor cannot just men to work same as if he were commissioner under the present charter. Under the new charter, the mayor will be the executive head of the municipal departments, but each department will be under the supervision of a board or commission, with the exception of those under control of the board of public service.

Under the new charter, the mayor will be the executive head of the municipal departments, but each department will be under the supervision of a board or commission, with the exception of those under control of the board of public service.

Under the present charter the superintendent of the city is responsible for results and who will have charge of the employment of labor. It will take some time for the citizens to become familiar with the radical difference between the old system and the new especially in regard to the management of the municipal departments and the mode of holding the superintendent of each responsible for results.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem MEMORIES

Those good old songs, those tender songs,
Those southern ballads gentle,
That always make the maddening crowd soft and sentimental—
"Oh take me back to Tennessee
And let me see my mammy,
My mammy dear who waits for me
Down South in Alabama!"

Those songs that say, "Oh let me roam
Down where the live oak quiver"
Half stolen from "Kentucky Home"
And half from "Swanee River"
These song-composing gentlemen
Sing, "Dixie-Land is my land."
Though none of them has ever been "Down South of Staten Island!"

Oh how I love those southern songs
(Although they're slightly tawdry)
About the homesick lad who longs
To be "back in Virginia."
Those Dixie songs, those tawdry songs,
That crown so musically
These fair old, rare old southern
That come from "Tin Pan Alley!"

Just in Time

Angus was on his first visit to London, and he set out to find his friend Jack, who had come to the city a few years earlier. No. 1200 Holborn was the address at which Angus had been told that he would find Jack. He walked down several streets, and then caught sight of a tramcar marked "Holborn." Furthermore he noted its number 1200. "Hoos," he cried. "There goes Jack's house now." "It's good I saw it before it got moved or I might never have found him."—Houston Post.

Very Objectionable
Observing a poorly dressed man stagger and fall prostrate on the sidewalk, a passing physician hurried to his aid and began to feel for his pulse. Apparently the man was unconscious, and the physician was about to draw his hypodermic syringe from his medicine bag when a workman with a dinner pail in his hand stepped from the group of surrounding spectators. "Here, give him some of this," he said, holding a whiskey flask in his hand. Grateful, the physician poured part of its contents into the victim's throat whereupon the victim revived, raised his head and spat it out. "You're no doctor," he said. "You're a whiskey peddler." "That's what I am," said the doctor. "That's why I'm called 'Doc'."—New York Sun.

Guilty But Curious
The vicar's fruit had been stolen and his finger print left upon one piece. He had a photographic enlargement made. "Take," said the vicar on meeting an individual whom he suspected. "Here, take this photograph and show it to your neighbor." "Did you, sir?" replied Jack innocently. "Yes," the vicar continued sternly. "But the thief left his mark behind him and I don't know who he is." "I don't say so," said Jack nervously. "Yes, I do. You see this" and the good man produced the enlarged reproduction. "Take that photograph and show it to your neighbor." "Did you, sir?" replied Jack innocently. "Yes," the vicar continued sternly. "But the thief left his mark behind him and I don't know who he is." Fit to Lead
In times of wild discussion, while things on earth endure, an ounce of mild precaution will spare us pounds of cure. The man who always the meeting, when all about him are in a fever, is not the chap who starts a scrap, but he who keeps his head.

While some insist on raving, to ease their fevered minds, He turns his wits to saving, whatever truth he finds. They chafe and stamp and hellow, He holds his peace and lead; When they are through, he gives his view. This man who keeps his head.

The ties that wrath has broken, The bonds that rage has loosed, When he has calmly spoken, Are knotted, spliced, or noosed; And he, the calm, the sane, the true, Find all their fury fled. Repentant men shake hands again For him who keeps his head.

Our temper cheat us badly, When earth's confusing roils, Seem crisscrossing so madly, They try our souls like goads. We know not what to follow, Until we hear the tread Of one who leads a prince of deeds, 'ne man who keeps his head.

Poolish Question
"Is the boss new?" asked the visitor.
The office boy, with his chair tilted back and his legs stretched out on the desk made no reply. "I asked if the boss was in," said the visitor. The office boy glanced at him, but remained silent. "Didn't you hear me?" snapped the visitor. "Of course, I heard you," answered the boy scornfully. "Then why the dickens didn't you tell me if the boss is in?" "Now, I ask you," replied the boy, as he rechecked his legs on the desk, "does it look like it?"

Bobby Didn't Mind
When Bobby went to see his grandmother he was much interested in whatever went on in the kitchen. One day he said to him: "I'm going to make you a nice little pie in a saucepan, all for yourself. Don't you think it's pretty good to take so much trouble?" Bobby pondered. "Grandma," he said at length, "mother told me not to be a bother, and if it's going to be any trouble you can just as well make me a pie regular size."—Harper's Magazine.

Among the familiar figures to be seen regularly about one of the entrances to the Massachusetts mills on East Merrimack street is a tall, smooth-faced gentleman wearing a cap, a long black overcoat and black suit, with a neat pair of black shoes always kept spotlessly clean. He is known to every passerby—is William Cornell. He rarely talks, but when he does he generally has something to say and no one gets by the big gates on East Merrimack street who doesn't have the passed word or has no business there. He also keeps his eyes on the mill section, although he is not on guard there. Cornell is one of the faithful men who keeps the mills of Lowell from being overrun by people apt to hang around the entrances frequently. The guards are absolutely necessary to prevent interference with hard work and to keep out the curious who sometimes want to get in and "look around."

When you want to meet a real Centralville boaster, drop in on any one of the Perreaults of that hamlet across the river, and get acquainted. "The Perreaults of Centralville," as they are known in social as well as business circles, are popular folks to meet, and they are widely known, too, especially in French-speaking circles. Numerous friends of theirs bound for Canada for the holidays, drop in to see George or Edward or Reneo before departing for the border. The Perreaults belong to a number of local social organizations, too, and are always warm supporters of any movement that will keep Centralville on the map. They never miss any horse club meetings, or meetings where speakers are seeking support for some movement tending to keep tabs on the "high" end when it comes to improvements of streets, new playgrounds, park areas or better street car service. The Perreaults have long been noted for their geniality as well as their strict integrity, and they are Lowell boosters every day in the year, even if they do like to get away

Wallace Reid in "Too Much Speed" will be one of the attractions at the Crown theatre, today and tomorrow. It's a race track picture tingling with rivalry, tickety and danger. Theodore Roberts and Agnes Ayres are also in the cast.

In an exciting story that skips quickly from two cities in California to New York's Gay White Way and thence to the gaming halls of Monte Carlo, Dorothy Dalton, the picture star, will be seen at the Crown theatre today and tomorrow. The picture is "A Romantic Adventure," adapted from a popular novel by Charles Belmont Davis.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE: William S. Hart in "White Oak," "Mia Lulu Bell," a William De Mille production, and "The Idle Class," featuring Charlie Chaplin, are the leading attractions now playing at the Merrimack Square theatre.

THE STRAND
The big triple-feature bill that opens at The Strand today is headed by "Charlie Chaplin in 'The Idle Class'." The other features are "The Barri- cades," a live dramatic screen success, and "The Crown Theatre," a new picture. "The Idle Class" is a comedy of the length of the day, occasionally and see some of their old-time friends up north.

Children generally like to draw pictures as soon as they learn what a pencil or pen is made for. And I Christmas gift stories that are ready for the children's inspection, or rather for their Christmas stockings. A device which is attracting interest as a gift for little artists, is being shown in the form of a large drawing board, to which is attached a mechanism by which a child may reproduce in enlarged size any picture which he may desire to copy. The pictures may be produced in pencil, crayon or water colors on paper and on blackboard. The drawing to be copied is attached at the top of the drawing board, and by means of the device, which consists of three different lengths of wood attached to each other, on pins, an exact and enlarged reproduction of the picture being drawn can be made on the paper attached below.

With the advent of cases of alleged rabies among canines in Chelmsford and Lawrence, Veterinary Surgeon William H. Eaton told The Man About Town today that all owners of Lowell dogs would be doing a public service if they reported any instances of sick dogs to the veterinary of the Lowell Humane society, where the agent can generally be found every day at the free clinics for dogs, cats and other pets are continued each Thursday at the society's rooms. This week was the busiest the surgeon has tackled, dogs coming in all the way from Tewksbury and eight varieties being noted.

ENGINEER TOLD HE COULDN'T GET WELL

CASE WAS GIVEN UP AND ALL MEDICINE STOPPED—NOW UP AND FEELING FINE

"After my first few doses of Tanlac I commenced to pick right up and in a month's time was able to drive my car, mow the lawn and do any other work about the house." This is what Henry E. Minard, passenger engineer on the Grand Trunk railroad, between Portland, Me., and Island Pond, Vt., has to say for himself after his case had been given up as hopeless. Mr. Minard's home address is Freeport road, Yarmouth, Me.

"Seven months ago," explained Mr. Minard, "I had to give up work on account of what they call anemia. I was laid up and under treatment for three months, but kept getting worse. A few days later I was given up as a hopeless case. A stranger who overheard a friend of mine discussing my case with other railroad men on the train, asked why they didn't have me try Tanlac. So when my friend got to his home in Island Pond he sent word back to get me Tanlac. When I began taking it, I had a bad stomach and was taking hardly any nourishment. Within a short time I was out of bed, eating like a pig, and rapidly getting stronger. I did sleep, and could now sleep, but now I sleep good and sound. A short time ago I bought my place in Yarmouth and have been working every day, doing it up. My recovery has been a surprise to all who knew of my desperate condition, and I know of dozens of people who are now taking Tanlac on the strength of what it has done for me."

Tanlac and Tanlac Vegetable Pills are sold in Lowell by Green's drug store, the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, during the first three days of the week, starting at 10:30 o'clock a. m. Come early and avoid the rush.

SECOND MONTH OF CONFERENCE

Arms Congress Far Advanced

Toward Achievement of its Announced Objective

Visiting Delegations Discuss

—Review of Work

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press) The beginning of the second month of the international conference on limitation of armaments—to give the official title—finds the conference so far advanced toward achievement of its announced objectives that in practically every visiting delegations discussion of homeward reservations has become a matter of immediate importance.

Outstanding in any tabulation of accomplishments is the four power agreement reached in plenary session Saturday. By this covenant the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan agreed "as between themselves to respect their rights in relation to their insular possessions and dominions in the region of the Pacific ocean" for the next 10 years.

Upon ratification of this agreement, the Anglo-Japanese alliance, long regarded with disquiet in the United States and several British dominions, will be abrogated.

Limitation of naval armaments, the first subject on the conference agenda, remains practically in the status in which it was found after Secretary Hughes had declared the American proposal for reduction of capital ships to a 5-5-3 ratio based between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Great Britain and Japan both accepted the proposal in principle immediately, the former making reservations as to submarine tonnage and regarding some details of the 10 year naval construction holiday which was to ensue, and Japan filing demand for a slightly larger proportionate tonnage. Intergoven with the ensuing negotiations has been the question of Pacific naval bases and fortifications upon which no formal action has yet been taken but, it is understood, Japan has received assurances of a continuation of the status quo.

Land armaments have not yet been taken up beyond the general discussion which followed the address to the conference of Premier Briand of France outlining the position of that country toward any proposal for reduction. It is the general impression that land forces in themselves will not be taken up for any definite action at the present meeting. Certain phases of the subject, however, will necessarily be considered by the committee to which was referred the task of drawing up rules of warfare.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CHARITY CONCERT

Before an audience that filled St. Patrick's school hall on Suffolk street last evening, the Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's parish held its annual Christmas charity concert. A substantial sum for the society's Christmas fund was realized and will be used for the Christmas happiness of the parish poor; the increase in the fund through the success of last evening's entertainment will enable the members of the society to do this good work quite thoroughly this year.

The decorations about the hall were pleasing to the eye and the red, white and blue of the flag were prominent. The program follows:

Song, "Little Mother of Mine," Joseph M. Kelly
Soprano solo, Valse Marie,
Miss Nellie Lynch
Vocal Duet: "In the Garden of My Heart,"
John McMahon and George Kirwin
Tenor solo, selected,
Edward Donohue, assisted by John Ball.

Interpretive reading of the Minuet,
Miss Anna K. Mullen and Miss Dorothy M. Mullen
Baritone solo, selected,
James E. Donnelly
Soprano solo, selected,
Mrs. Nora Regan Longtin

Contralto solo, "Close to My Heart,"
Miss Mary Mack

Vocal duet, selected,
Fred Cummings and Raymond Kelly
Musical novelty and "The Star Spangled Banner,"
Miner-Doyle's orchestra

The interpretive reading by the Mullen sisters was highly enjoyed and elicited great applause. It was the most enjoyable feature of the program. The sisters wore pretty colonial costumes and exhibited splendid voices. These girls are also talented vocalists. The other numbers were also well received.

The accompanists of the evening were Mrs. Alice Donnelly McLaughlin, John J. Kelly and John Ball. The committee on arrangements was: Mrs. Della T. Donohue, chairman; Mrs. Joseph W. Green, Mrs. Patrick J. Bagley, Mrs. Charles Brennan, Mrs. A. J. Parent, Mrs. Edward Perry, Mrs. Minnie Courtney and Miss Elizabeth Lyon.

The decorations committee consisted of Miss Nellie Reardon, chairman; Miss Bridget Reardon and Mrs. Maria Cummings. The printing committee included Mrs. Della T. Donohue, chairman; Miss Josephine Lyon and Miss Helen Coughlin.

"Diapepsin" for Bad Stomach, Indigestion

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" now! In five minutes your stomach feels fine. Don't bother what upset your stomach or which portion of the food did the damage. If your stomach is sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; you belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your literal food without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antidote is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 60 cents for a large case at drug stores.—Adv.

DYED HER DRAPERIES AND A FADED SKIRT

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then your material will come out right, because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to streak, spot, fade, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.—Adv.

ARREST IN BIG MAIL ROBBERY

Frank Calabriz Held in Connection With $2,000,000
Mail Theft

Arraigned Before Federal Commissioner Queen at New York

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The first arrest in connection with the $2,000,000 mail robbery on lower Broadway, New York, several weeks ago, became known today when Frank Calabriz was ordered arraigned before Federal Commissioner Queen.

Calabriz, charged with the theft of four packages of registered mail, had been secretly arrested a month ago and confined in jail here by postal inspectors.

Nineteen million miscellaneous letters annually go to the post office in Washington.

FEDERAL TAX EVASION

Investigation to be Conducted Here Relative to Tax Payments

Federal investigation is going to be made by local officers into certain conditions surrounding the promotion of dancing parties and other forms of amusement which require payment of a federal tax. This was announced by Officer Harrington, today, who said he had cards on a number of parties and individuals who have promoted affairs from which the government is due tax but from which taxes have not been forthcoming. These conditions are being investigated at once and those found to be guilty of evading the payment of tax will have the federal laws to cope with.

Officer Harrington said, "We are going after these people at once. We have the goods on a number of them and have cards upon which we are going to collect taxes. There are parties, individuals and clubs who have been conducting dances and other taxable forms of amusement who have not paid after them from this out. We are going after them to see that they are well for them to heed the warning because Uncle Sam cannot be trifled with in matters of this kind."

Some Are Exempt

Mr. Harrington went on to explain that there were certain forms of amusement such as benefits for educational, science and charity which were exempt upon application but what he referred to was certain people who winked at the law and expected to get away with it.

Work in the local department is going on with its general smoothness. Mr. Harrington explained that a number of people had read the handwriting on the wall and had heeded the warnings appearing in The Sun to pay back taxes of late the music. On this subject, he said: "It's a good thing these people paid attention to the warnings for we were going after them. Every day we have delinquents coming in making payments and in many instances they have shown up on the day upon which they were going to be traced."

The revenue office will be open all day Thursday for final quarterly payments. The office hours will be from 9:30 to 12:30 and from 2 until 4:30. This will be the day upon which the last installment of the 1921 tax is due. Those who are unable to reach the office may fulfill their obligation by sending the necessary amount to the collector of internal revenue, Little building, Boston, Mass. It is emphasized that the bill be enclosed with the remittance.

Officer Donoghue of the local force is in Haverhill this week investigating reports. It is expected Officer Harrington will join him for a day or two this week. A new man has been put in charge there and is a bit unaccustomed to the territory but will be helped out by the two local men.

Will Have Conference

With the approach of the new year the local officials are beginning to look forward to the new rules and this application. It is expected they will be called to Boston for a conference within a short time to prepare the work for the coming year. After this conference a great deal of information will be given out as to many phases of the new laws which might not be clear to the people in general.

While the officers are looking forward to the new year, they realize they have still plenty of work to do at the present time. One of the greatest burdens which has been added since prohibition is the collection of tax on liquors owned and manufactured by violators of the prohibition laws. As soon as the prohibition enforcement agents make a raid or seizure the revenue officers are notified and presented with bills to collect taxes upon the liquors.

The fact that a man is brought into court, found guilty and fined does not mean he is through with his duty. His case in court is a criminal one and he has still the required liquor tax to pay.

It is the collection of these taxes which gives the officers additional work. The matter of getting this tax is up to them entirely, and at times the task is a difficult one, to say the least.

INSTITUTE WEDNESDAY AT NORMAL SCHOOL

LOWELL WOMAN FILES SUIT AGAINST B. & M.

The Boston & Maine railroad is the defendant in a suit for $25,000 filed by Theresa V. Burns of Lowell as administratrix of the estate of John H. Burns of Lowell. The papers were filed Friday in the Middlesex superior court at East Cambridge. Burns was employed as a locomotive fireman on the railroad. His services injured when the engine left the rails. The accident occurred in Westford, near the Abbot mills in Forge Village. The plaintiff alleges that the engine, the tracks and the roadbed were in a defective condition.

Twelve as much business is done in the New York postoffice as in the entire Dominion of Canada.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Jennie Morse, aged about 6 years and residing at 175 Church street, and another little girl named Winterbeur, aged about 7 years and residing at 162 Church street, was struck and knocked down by an automobile in Church street yesterday afternoon. The Winterbeur girl received bruises about the face and body. The other child was not injured. The automobile was being operated by C. H. Conant of 19 Nesmith street, who claims both children ran from the sidewalk into the path of his machine. After the accident, he took the girls to their respective homes.

OFFICIALS ARE MYSTIFIED

Report Guam-Yap Cable Sealed Within Three Days
by Unknown Person

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—State department officials declared themselves mystified today at the statement issued last night by the Postal Telegraph & Cable Co., through its San Francisco office, that the Guam-Yap cable had been sealed within the past three days by some person unknown to the company.

Officials said the cable in question which was seized and sealed soon after the United States entered the world war, never had been unsealed so far as they had been advised and title to it still remained with the allied and associated powers as prescribed in the treaty of Versailles.

LOWELL ROTARY CLUB

Lowell Rotarians have a novel program coming in place of the usual after-dinner speaking, for tomorrow's weekly gathering at the Boys' club. No out-of-town speakers are listed, but the committee has a number of surprises on tap, which are said to be entirely new. Pres. Robert M. Thompson was in Boston today completing arrangements, and at least eight events are scheduled for the 1 p. m. festivities that promise to surpass anything in the attraction line yet provided by the club. Harry G. Pollard of the A. G. Pollard Co. is handling the day's events.

LOWELL HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Regular quarterly meeting of the Lowell Historical society will be held in accordance with its bylaws at its rooms in the Memorial building Wednesday evening, Dec. 14 at 7:30 o'clock.

TO COST $1,500,000
Estimate of Cost to Telephone Co. to Repair Wires Damaged by Storm

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—More than 100,000 feet of various kinds of wire, or nearly enough to girdle the earth, has been temporarily laid on the ground or attached to fences and pole stumps during the past few days. In order to restore our service at the earliest possible moment, said General Manager Driver of the Telephone company yesterday.

"To show the magnitude of our problem, two orders for copper wire aggregated 400,000 pounds each. We have on hand or on the way 12 carloads of crossarms, six carloads of pole line hardware, and over 50 carloads of poles. Other material aggregates thousands of items.

"A conservative estimate shows that the storm will cost us upwards of $1,500,000. Fortunately we have a reserve large enough to take care of this expense.

"We have over 3,000 men at work clearing up the wreckage, setting new poles, running lines and connecting telephones. They are doing a big job in an orderly and systematic way. In every section we are making rapid progress, but our task is tremendous. Already toll service in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island is nearly normal. In the western part of Massachusetts about 25 per cent of the toll circuits has been restored with temporary construction. The greater Boston area we have connected about 5,000 telephones and we hope to restore service to about 10,000 others during this week. In other cities and towns local service is being restored as rapidly as possible.

"Every available man who can be spared has been rushed from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont and a number of toll line crews and trucks have come from New York, Pennsylvania and other states to help in Massachusetts. We have been able to relieve the employment situation to the extent of taking on temporarily over 1,000 unskilled men to do salvage work, dig post holes and assist in straining wires.

"Our men are not to break all previous records in an emergency and they are going to do it.

"With so many poles and wires down, scores of towns were completely isolated from communication with surrounding communities. We had to work quickly and so we adopted the method used during the war and laid our covered wires by the roadside. Later all these lines must be placed on poles after the new poles have been erected, and still later the wires must be tightened and weak spots located and fixed.

A new underground cable between Boston and Worcester was planned long ago. All the conduits are laid and a new cable containing 162 talking circuits will be in service within a few months.

"Our men were quick to devise new ways of routing toll calls. Within a few hours a Boston to Portland line was established by way of Rochester and North Conway, N. H., a Boston to Springfield line by way of Providence and Hartford, and a Worcester to New York line by way of Boston to New York under ground. These are typical of many roundabout routings as substitutes for direct toll circuits.

"Toll circuits from Burlington, White River, Bellows Falls, Rutland and Keene were immediately connected with our underground cable at Lowell and brought into Boston, thus establishing communication to points north.

"Our multiple line between Boston and Bangor, which makes possible five telephone conversations on one pair of wires, was badly damaged, but in less than a week we had it working, stringing several miles of wire along the ground to bridge a section destroyed by the storm.

"To illustrate how earnestly our plant men are working, here is a typical incident reported from Haverhill. A combination man named Coleman went to work at 3 o'clock in the morning. About 12 hours later we asked him to go to Brandy Brook, about three miles from Haverhill, and connect five Boston to Portland circuits. With no supper, his 'dinner' frozen, he worked on a pole by the light of a lantern until 9 p. m., when the job was done.

"In our business we call that the

Adventures of the Twins
KIP'S STORY

KIP HAD THE KEY OF THE ENCHANTED CUPBOARD

The gate swung shut after Nancy, Nick and Kip. Goome village was behind them and they were in the secret passage that led back to Brownland. Kip had the key to the Enchanted Cupboard, and if all went well the Twins would soon have magic shoes and be helping Mr. Tim Pim to dig out the glittering colors for the Christmas toys.

"You promised to tell us how you found out that the gnomes were so wicked," Nick reminded the Browne who had helped them to escape. "Can't you tell us now? We're safe here."

"All right," consented Kip. "I can tell you while we're walking. I only discovered it last night when Tweed-anose asked me to go chimney hunting with him."

"Chimney hunting?" exclaimed Nancy. "Never had I heard told of it. It's this way. The gnomes hunt up all the chimneys where children live, 'spirit of service.' Such instances as this have been exemplified hundreds of times in emergencies. In a word, our plant men have done, and are doing, a magnificent job."

FRATERNAL NEWS

The result of the election of officers at a recent meeting of Chevalier-Middlesex Lodge, Knights of Pythias, was as follows: Chancellor commander, John B. Palsoul; vice chancellor, Robert M. LEGAL NOTICES

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—Middlesex, ss.

To the Hon. General Hospital, Old Ladies' Home, Lowell Humane Society, Path Home for Children, and the Young Women's Christian Association, all of which are interested in the County of Middlesex, Adelle M. Hill and Harry C. Hill, both of said Lowell; William Hill and Dently Lane of Dover and Maurice Lee of Lee in the State of New Hampshire and Nellie C. Hill, Mable G. Wight and Evelyn G. Lincoln, all of Gardner in the State of Maine. Whereas, Frederick C. Harvey of said Lowell, trustee under the will of the late Adelle M. Hill, late of said Lowell, deceased, for the benefit of Harry C. Hill, has presented to said Court his petition, praying for the instructions of said Court as to his duties in the administration of the trust under said will and particularly as to 1, from what date are you, the said Harry C. Hill, entitled to the income of said trust fund and 2, at what rate of interest said income shall be calculated, 3. Whether if said fund has been invested in any one, and should be paid from the principal and, if so, how much, and 4. whether if said fund has earned income, shall the income actually earned be paid to said beneficiary.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the twentieth day of December, A. D. 1921, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each of you who may be found in said County of Middlesex, fourteen days at least, before said Court, to appear at said Court, to appear at the Court by affidavit that you all have had actual notice of the proceedings, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be seven days, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this seventeenth day of December, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one. F. M. ESTY, Register.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the estate of Adelle A. Folsom, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased: Whereas, Duncan H. Folsom, the executor of the will of said deceased, has presented for allowance, the account of his administration upon the estate of said deceased:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County, on the twentieth day of December, A. D. 1921, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said executor is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this third day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one. F. M. ESTY, Register.

James E. O'Donnell, Attorney.

WOMEN DEMAND FULL DISARMAMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(By Associated Press)—A mass meeting held last night under the auspices of the Women's International League to register a demand for complete disarmament ended with an unscheduled procession to the Pan-American union, where most of the sessions of the disarmament conference are being held. Arriving at that building the marchers planted in front of it several banners bearing slogans opposing partial disarmament.

FOR DISABLED VETERANS "THE MANGER THRONE"

Arrangements for Observance of Forget-Me-Not Day Are Nearing Completion

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for Forget-me-not day which will be staged by Chapter 5, Disabled Veterans Association of America next Saturday. In a day or two the advisory committee will be announced which will work in conjunction with the association's committee.

A program will be announced later. The Business College has been secured as headquarters for the day and from this point all operations will be directed. At least 500 young ladies will be needed to aid in the distribution of the forget-me-nots. It has not yet been definitely decided whether or not a tag or flower will be used. It is believed artificial flowers will be ready for use.

One half of the funds collected go to the local chapter and the other half to the national association. The funds here are utilized in the many comforts needed for disabled service men. At the present time 150 members are enrolled in the local chapter which was instituted about two weeks ago. It is estimated there are 500 men in Lowell and vicinity eligible to join. A drive will be started in a week for members. Judge Marks of Chelmsford, a surprise court adviser, is national commander of the association. He was wounded seven times in the Argonne. The committee arranging for Forget-me-not day includes Harry F. O'Sullivan, chairman; Harry B. Sang, Raymond Corkery, John Sullivan and John J. Wallace. Young ladies who are willing to help next Saturday are asked to communicate with the chairman by calling 1031-W on the telephone.

Y. M. C. I. PLANS WINTER ACTIVITIES

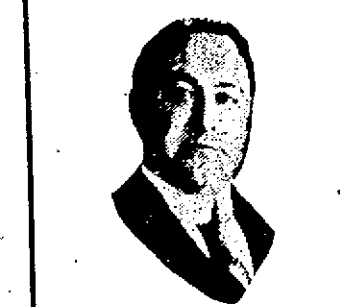

At the regular meeting of the Y.M.C.I. yesterday morning plans were discussed for the coming social events. The meeting was well attended and three new members were admitted and seven propositions read.

Announcement was made by the election commission of the institute that on next Sunday examinations for the various offices would be closed and that at the annual election the voting hours would be extended. The ladies' night, which has been advertised, will be postponed until Dec. 21, as there was some difficulty in arranging for the orchestra which had been mentioned.

The committee in charge of the coming minstrel show was enlarged to 12, and two ticket selling teams have been organized, the losing team to settle for a theatre party after the show. Team A is captained by Charles Connors and Team B by Peter Finnerty.

A communion breakfast and meeting of the St. Vincent de Paul society was held in the Y.M.C.I. quarters.

Story of Christmas in Song to be Given by Chorus of 70 Voices

"The Manger Throat," the story of Christmas in song, is to be given at next Sunday's meeting of the League of Catholic Women by a chorus of 70 voices, under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Donohue.

This cantata, so perfectly adapted to the Christmas season, has been diligently studied for several weeks under Mrs. Donohue's capable direction. The league orchestra, with Marie J. C. O'Connell as leader, will have a part in the production, and is expected to acquit itself most acceptably.

Many soloists of note will take part in the cantata, including Mrs. Joseph W. Green, Mrs. Mary M. Mooney, Miss Mary J. Carolan, Miss Harriet Moran, Miss Mary Mack, Miss Theresa Slattery, and Messrs. William Gookin, John Doyle, John McMahon, Timothy Flanagan and James King. All of these soloists have taken part in many entertainments in the past and are known to be among the most accomplished singers in the city.

Another notable feature of next Sunday's meeting will be the appearance of Rev. William J. Stinson, S. J., in a lecture on Lourdes, with a number of excellent stereoscopic views. Rev. Fr. Stinson has a thorough knowledge of this famous city, noted for its religious pilgrimages, and his views are said to be very well so-called.

The meeting next Sunday will open with the singing of Christmas carols by the assembly, led by Mrs. Joseph W. Green, and accompanied by the league orchestra. Rev. Fr. Stinson's lecture will follow and at its conclusion the cantata will be presented. A great turnout of members is expected with such a pretentious program offered.

The choir, under the direction of Joseph Paradis, who also presided at the organ, rendered the Gregorian chant, the solos being sustained by Mr. J. E. Nolel, Theophile Brasseur, Henri Chupel, Franco Hamelin and Francis Tremblay. At the offertory Mrs. Hector Volzard rendered "Inno Misa" while at the elevation Mrs. Maria Jacques sang "Memento Passio." After communion Miss Anna Martel sang "The Jesus" and as the body was being borne from the church rendered "The Profundis." The bearers were Hector Volzard, Joseph Cheneville, Maxime Thibault, Joseph Thibault, Alfred Gheras and Alfred Stoddard. Attending the funeral were Messrs. J. Brasseur, O.M.I. and Rev. J. Brasseur, O.M.I. Burial was in the family lot in St. Jo-

IMPORTANT ARRESTS BY BILLERICA POLICE

That the three young men arrested by the Billerica police Sunday, Dec. 4, for the alleged larceny of the automobile of Alva D. Stein, of Newton, in Boston, the Saturday night previous, had given fictitious names and addresses, that they had no police records, and that one of the trio since his arrest here had been committed to the Massachusetts reformatory at Concord for jumping bail of $500, was the information given to Judge Thomas J. Whelan in district court today during the youths' arraignment by Constable Henry D. Livingston, of Billerica.

When the young men, who appear to be about 20 or 21 years old, were asked by the justice if what the Billerica officer had said was true in that they had not given their correct names, the two present in court admitted the names affixed to the complaints were false and volunteered to give their correct ones. Their right names were, they said, Roland H. Hart, alias Michael F. O'Hara, of Charlestown, and Joseph L. Ryan, alias Joseph L. Regan of Charlestown. The true name of the third man, the Billerica constable told the court, was William Acheson, alias William F. Cahill, also of Charlestown. Mr. Livingston showed the court a letter from the state department of correction, which stated that Acheson last week was committed to the reformatory for defaulting a $500 bond.

Hoping to procure Acheson in court at the next arraignment, Constable Livingston asked for a continuance. Hart and Regan pleaded not guilty and when they expressed satisfaction to the postponement, the court ordered them held under the $500 bail set last week, which was then furnished, and continued the trial to Dec. 20.

The Billerica police, after they arrested the trio in that town, following the discovery of the automobile in a lonely section partly dismantled, have been closely investigating and have learned considerable of the three alleged offenders. Officers of the Boston & Maine road and the probation office of the Charlestown district court have furnished Constable Livingston with information regarding the past of the three youths and revealed that Ryan was put on probation by the Suffolk superior court for larceny last year, and Hart was arrested two months ago in Charlestown for an alleged automobile theft and is also under a suspended sentence from the Worcester court. Default warrants were out for Acheson, the constable was advised, from the police of Somerville and Revere, besides being charged with jumping a $500 bond from the Suffolk superior court.

ITALY HAD TO DISARM ALLEGED RUM RUNNERS HELD

No Conference Necessary in Italy's Case, Says Capt.
Vittorio Orlandini

Spoken before an audience in St. Anne's church last night, Capt. Vittorio Orlandini of the Italian army said that no conference was necessary for the disarmament program which Italy had planned; for the country either had to disarm or go bankrupt.

Capt. Orlandini said in part: "When one thinks of the perils geographical disadvantages which Italy has to put up with and then thinks of the disarmament both materially and spiritually, little has been left undone in this matter. Her standing during the war has been reduced to a mere 175,000 with a good prospect of a further reduction.

"Her army budget has been reduced while her five dreadnoughts will soon be turned into merchant vessels. One can hardly realize the conditions in my country. There are nearly 700 villages now in a deplorable condition while the war debt is of staggering proportions. This condition was brought about by the many hardships inflicted upon the country by Germany.

"It is true that England, France and the United States contributed more but it must also be remembered these countries were rich compared to Italy. "One net of Italy's probably saved the situation at the time of the outbreak of the war Germany and Italy had a treaty of long standing. When the German hordes swept westward and the French concentrated everything at the Marne they could not call upon their whole army to stem the tide of the invaders. For fear of the German million men in reserve until Italy refused to enter the war she of course refused the use of the two million men at the Marne and without these men France would have had a sad tale to tell of the Marne.

"Throughout the rest of the war the fortunes of Italy became closely linked with those of the United States. The sympathy of the United States for the two countries became stronger and stronger. Now their ideal at the Washington conference are marked by the same sincerity and nobility of purpose. It is the fond hope of both peoples the conference will accomplish its ends.

CROSS—Hamilton J. Cross, a resident of Manchester, N. H., died yesterday at the Battles Home, where he had resided for a year and a half, at the age of 83 years and 21 days. He is survived by a sister, Miss Mary Cross of South Natick, N. H.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Lena Glickenstein, 76, mother of Dr. Abraham Glickenstein, who was shot to death in his Brooklyn office Saturday night, fell dead today from heart disease, while viewing her son's body. Mrs. Glickenstein had not been told of her son's death, newspapers being kept from her.

Today she was told Dr. Glicken-stein had been operated upon for appendicitis and she was taken to his home in a limousine. When she saw several hundred persons gathered in front of the dwelling, however, she became suspicious.

Taken inside and told of her son's death, but not of the circumstances, she cried out, addressing the body in the casket: "Abie, my son, it ought to be you going to your funeral. Instead, I am going to yours.
I wish to God I were dead instead of you. My boy, I must go with you."

Then she fell across the coffin.

CITY ELECTION TOMORROW

Election Commission Receives Many Inquiries
Relative to Absentee Voting as Result of Misunderstanding of the Law

The stage is set for the final act
in the municipal drama, the city election which takes place tomorrow. The election commissioners say that practically the same arrangements will prevail tomorrow as at the primaries.
There will be two policemen on duty
at each booth at all times, from the opening of the polls until the last
ballot is counted late in the evening;
one officer will be stationed inside to
see that the election is properly conducted, in the interests of all the candidates, and one outside to watch out for improper activities. A record-
breaking vote is expected.

Purchase of Cape Cod Canal Favored

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Purchase by the federal government of Cape Cod Canal was recommended today by Secretaries Weeks, Denby, and Hoover, who informed congress that $11,500,000 would be "reasonable price for the property." Later Chairman Winslow of the house commerce committee introduced a bill authorizing the purchase of the canal property for $11,500,000.

DEPARTMENTS ARE BUSY
Hundreds of Men Engaged in Street, Park and Sewer Work

Despite the splendid work that has been done in clearing the city streets, sidewalks and other public areas of thousands of cords of wood and other debris work hampered by the discovery of "live" wires meshed in branches or lying under deep banks of snow and ice, there is still much to do, and the city departments still have large forces of men, wagons and automobile trucks on the job and see "no end in sight" right away.

The cost of the big storm damage has not yet been computed by anyone, nor will it be until all the big bills come in. But the Sun was informed today that the park department alone, where there are still many days of hard work yet to perform in many areas about the city, including the parks and playgrounds, the extra funds required to pay all bills may reach $15,000 and possibly $20,000.

This morning, with the last storm far away and almost forgotten, seemed to be a poor time to talk
"storm damage," but the Sun reporter got a surprise. It was learned that Saturday and Sunday, one of the biggest gangs of workmen ever employed to clean up a stricken city, about 160 in all, was sent out. Besides the big double teams—eight of one—there was a large truck and a ton truck, fitted for receiving loads of wood.

Today there are more than 1000 loads of wood on the South common and fully 1000 loads piled up around Shedd park, to be disposed of. A great many Lowell people have taken home loads of this "free wood" and the park department men say they are welcome to all they want of it. What isn't given away will be burned later.

Much of the wood piled up at the skating ponds will be burned there when there is enough ice and the skaters want fire to keep them warm. It is the cheapest way to get rid of the refuse, and will save the city a lot of money.

Many loads of broken wood and tree limbs have been dumped into the river or onto the big refuse grounds, where it will remain until spring or until it has been burned. It has been and will continue to be very slow work.

The big Saturday and Sunday campaign resulted in many side streets being cleaned and much carted away.
This morning, another week's work started, with about 40 new men on the job and the usual number of trucks and wagons.

No tree surgery work is to be done
now. "This work will come later, when the damaged trees will be taken care of as they should be," he said.
"There will have to be a lot of cutting and sawing off of jagged branches and many bark tears trimmed up and smoothed over. If we started the work now, we'd never get through cleaning up the city, so the work of repairing the trees and preserving them will have to wait a little while longer."

It was intimated that except for a few trifling changes, the British premier had declined to make any concessions, his attitude being:
"There is the treaty and it stands."

DUBLIN, Dec. 12. (By the Associated Press).—The possibility that the Dail Eireann may not reach a decision on the Anglo-Irish treaty at its meeting here on Wednesday, was suggested in informal discussions among Dail members at the Mansion house today.

Craig, the Ulster premier, presided over a meeting of the Ulster party here today, informing his supporters of his recent conversation with Prime Minister Lloyd George in London. It is unofficially reported the proceedings grew stormy when Sir James informed the meeting that Mr. Lloyd George had maintained an unyielding attitude toward Ulster.

It was intimated that except for a few trifling changes, the British premier had declined to make any

HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR LOWELL

Lowell Police Commended for Their Active Co-operation With Federal Officers in the Enforcement of the Prohibition Law

At a monster prohibition mass meeting held in Boston, yesterday afternoon, Prohibition Field Agent Harold D. Wilson gave great credit to the Lowell police for their splendid cooperation with the federal officers, and spoke of Lowell as a good example of his plan of co-operative endeavor.

Present as the principal speaker at the Tremont temple meeting was Prohibition Commissioner Major Roy A.
Haynes, who came from Washington to express his favorable opinion on the work accomplished in Massachusetts, also Arthur J. Davis, secretary of the Anti-Saloon league, and Prohibition Director Elmer C. Potter. Major Haynes also spoke to a mass meeting of women in Ford hall, Boston, and present at the latter meeting was Robert A. Wood, former license commissioner of Boston, and Clara E.
Briggs, member of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league. The women's meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. A. Malcolm Forbes.

In a statement on enforcement conditions in Massachusetts, Commissioner Haynes said:
"I am pleased with conditions as I find them in Massachusetts. Director Elmer C. Potter has a splendid organization which is functioning with gratifying effectiveness. I have every reason to believe there will be the same response here as in other sections of the country in the campaign which has for its purpose the throtling of a threatening bootleggers' aristocracy which is menacing metropolitan centres. Enforcement problems of women in Massachusetts, as in all other states, but with the public sentiment aroused and co-operation between officials and citizens the situation is nearing solution."

Field Agent Wilson, in his address, went into a detailed story of the work and results in the various communities of the state. Only recently he made a tour of the principal cities of Massachusetts and was able to speak from personal experience.

In speaking of liquor enforcement conditions as he found them in Lowell, Field Agent Wilson spoke as follows:
Praise for Lowell

"The city of Lowell is a good example of my plan of co-operative endeavor. Under license Lowell had 100 saloons. Under no license the city has now 33 so-called near-beer saloons, and 21 of these have been brought

Tommy O'Connor, Murderer

bers Break Jail at Chicago

Former Scheduled to be Hanged Thursday—Police
Chief Charges "Frame Up"

Gunmen Fought Way Down
Five Flights, Past Guards
and Got Away

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—"Lucky Tommy"
O'Connor, gunman and convicted mur-derer, was to have been led today to the death cell in the Cook county jail
to await hanging Thursday morning
for the killing of a policeman. Instead he was leading the combined force of 6000 police and deputies a merry chase, after a sensational escape from the county jail. Four jail guards were overpowered by O'Connor and four other prisoners, but O'Connor's reputation as a killer suffered when he failed to use a revolver
which had been smuggled to him.

Frame-up Charged
"The jail break was characterized by Chief of Police Fitzmorris as a "frame
up between O'Connor and jail officials," and the chief ordered his men
to bring in O'Connor, "dead or alive."
Searching inquiries also were started
by State's Attorney Robert Crowe and Sheriff Peters. The sheriff suspended
three guards and also offered a re-
O'Connor.

Jail Guard David Straus, "Daring Dave" O'Connor, the gunman's brother, and several prisoners were to be questioned again today. Straus was quizzed at length but was unable to aid anything of importance and was held in a police cell. All jail rules were violated in handling the prisoners, according to a member of the state's attorney's office.

Hundreds of reports were received by the police of O'Connor's hiding
place, but no direct trace of the fugitive or his two companions, Edwin Darrow, his cellmate and James La

Customers

Customers may very materially assist in avoiding delay in the restoration of their Electric Service if they will carefully examine the entrance pipes or service connections belonging to them where
the Electric Lighting Service is attached to their building, and if these pipes or connections are broken, telephone to one of the several wiring contractors in Lowell to have necessary repairs made
so that when our line crews are able to reconnect the service,
everything will be ready for them.
Substantial progress is being made each day in Lowell, and the work of restoration is going on very systematically and with no
unavoidable delay.

Please remember the weather
almost wholly governs the speed we will be able to make in restoring Electric Service and each stormy
day will delay progress perhaps more than for that particular day.

It is hoped that some time next week work may be begun in outlying towns.

New York Would Pass London

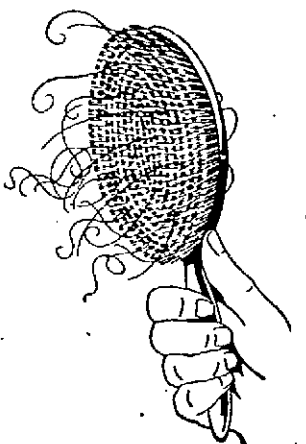

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The ancient discussion over the rivalry in growth between New York and London has been revived by the plan of the port of New York authority to solve the freight problem of the port. It would increase the metropolitan area from 375 to 1463 square miles, with a population of 7,974,019 compared with 5,629,048 for the five city boroughs given in last year's federal census. London's metropolitan district showed 7,253,623 persons in 1919.

Slack Employment In Shipping Industry

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Slack employment in the shipping industry, is compelling many former merchant marine officers to return to the engine room or to duties of stewards and able seamen, according to Dr. George S. "Many of these officers," he said yesterday, "were graduates of navigation schools and received thorough training for their duties as officers."

Peter's church yesterday, celebrated by Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph. D., the pastor, the Married Ladies' sodality received communion in a body. Rev. Peter T. Linehan assisted in giving communion. The pastor, Very Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O.M.I., celebrated the 8 o'clock mass, and was assisted in giving communion to the St. Vincent de Paul and Holy Name societies, who attended in a body, by Rev. Chas. Fallon, O.M.I., and Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O.M.I. There was a very large attendance at the closing of the women's retreat last night at 6:30. A procession of the members of the Children of Mary and Immaculate Conception sodalities, the rosary, a sermon on "Perseverance," renewal of baptismal vows and solemn benediction featured the closing ceremonies.

At the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday, Rev. William J. Mahan, O. M. I., gave a solemn high mass at 11 o'clock in honor of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, assisted by Rev. Francis X. McGinn, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. James J. O'Sullivan, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. The women of the parish who made the retreat which started last Wednesday evening attended communion in a body. The closing exercises of the retreat, held last night, were largely attended. The recitation of the rosary, a sermon and benediction and the renewal of baptismal vows were carried out at the closing exercises. Rev. Fr. O'Sullivan, O.M.I., preached the retreat.

At St. Patrick's church yesterday, Rev. Joseph A. Curtin sang the high mass and the sermon was preached by Rev. A. Supple, D.D. At the 7 o'clock mass the Women's sodality received communion in a body. The Rev. William O'Brien, P.R., was the celebrant. Members of the Catholic Young Men's League will receive communion in a body at the 8:30 o'clock mass next Sunday.

At the 7:30 o'clock mass at St. Peter's church yesterday, Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph. D., the pastor, the Married Ladies' sodality received communion in a body. Rev. Peter T. Linehan assisted in giving communion. The high mass was sung by Rev. Francis J. Shea, and the sermon was delivered by Rev. Fr. Linehan. There will be a meeting of the Holy Name society this evening at 7:30. The Married Ladies' sodality will meet at 7:30 Wednesday evening and the Society for the Propagation of the Faith will hold a meeting on Thursday evening at the same hour.

At 7:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the tribunal for members of the Children of Mary, Holy Rosary and Immaculate Conception sodalities at St. Michael's church, which opened Thursday, was closed with a reception to members of the sodalities. The services which marked the closing of the tribunal were well attended and very impressive. Rev. James F. Lynch sang the high mass yesterday, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Thomas J. Heagney.

A forty hours' adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, beginning next Friday morning at 7:30 o'clock and closing Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with a solemn high mass, is to be held at St. Margaret's church. On Saturday masses will be celebrated at 5:30, 7 and 9 o'clock. On Thursday confessions will be heard at the usual hours. Rev. Charles J. Gilligan, the pastor, celebrated the 6 o'clock mass yesterday, and the 7:30 and 9 o'clock masses, at which there were many communicants, were celebrated by Rev. William P. Dronnan. Rev. Andrew P. O'Brien celebrated the 11 o'clock mass. The Holy Name society held a regular meeting last night.

At St. Columba's church yesterday the 7:30 o'clock mass was celebrated by Rev. James F. Somers and the late mass by Rev. John A. Hogan.

FEDERAL OFFICERS MAKE BIG HAUL

To Harry G. Sheldon, prohibition enforcement agent attached to this district, goes the credit for unearthing the $7500 moonshine distillery seized and destroyed on the Shute farm in Lynnfield Centre Saturday night and Sunday. With two other prohibition officers Sheldon heard of the place Saturday and when he was advised that early Saturday evening a load of sugar was being delivered to this mysterious house, which once served as a bottling plant, the local officer immediately got in touch with Director Wilson at the Boston office and asked for instructions. A squad of men was detailed from the Boston office and the raid was made. The seizure, according to the officers was the largest yet made in the east, its value being set by experts at no less

FROM GERMANY
Mrs. E. H. Reiser is the first German woman to enter diplomatic society at Washington since the war. She is the wife of the secretary of the German embassy. Hanns Ernst, their son, is the first official German baby at the capital.

KILLED DEER AT LAKEVIEW
Hans, Werner Elmer H. Houghton, accompanied by a agent of the local humane society, went to Lake Massena yesterday and shot a wounded deer that had been found lumbering helplessly in the lake waters near one of the shores. While attempting to cross the thin ice in its maddened condition, the deer plunged through an opening several yards off shore. The animal was a yearling but of fairly good size.

than $1500. The plant could easily turn out 100 gallons of moonshine a day, it was estimated.
Sunday morning Major Haynes, federal prohibition commissioner, who was in Boston over the weekend, accepted the invitation of Director Wilson to inspect the distillery and witness the destruction. The commissioner expressed surprise at the completeness of the raid and ordered one side of the building knocked down so that newspaper photographers could obtain good pictures of the interior. Then Director Wilson gave his men, among whom was officer Sheldon, orders to destroy the seized goods. Two barrels of whiskey, said to be of 120 proof, were rolled into a field and set on fire. The rest of the material was piled up and burned. Included in the seizure were five 10-gallon stills, five large oil stoves, 25 barrels of mash, 25 five-gallon cans of kerosene, 17 five-gallon containers, 5 bags of 50 yards of fishing cloth, a filling machine, rubber boots, canned goods and an assortment of lace filled with corks and other material. While the prohibition agents were burning the equipment of the distillery the bells of the church were ringing, calling the people of the town to services. Maj. Haynes highly complimented the officers upon their success in discovering the headquarters from which a particularly large moonshine business had been carried on. Director Wilson in speaking of the enforcement conditions in Massachusetts referred to the excellent conditions existing in Lowell and praised the work accomplished by Federal Officer Sheldon and the local police liquor squad. He stated that out of 45 liquor arrests 44 convictions resulted, terming that highly efficient work. The director said that during the past two months practically one-half as much work has been done in this city as had been done during the previous nine months. He touched on the fact that out of the 33 near-beer saloons now operating in Lowell 24 have been brought before justice for violating the prohibition laws.

18 Amateur Wireless Stations Cross Sea

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 12.—Eighteen American amateur wireless stations have succeeded in crossing the Atlantic ocean, according to reports to the American Radio Relay league here today. The report was transmitted from Paul Godley, stationed near Glasgow, Scotland, the receiving end in the amateur tests that began last Wednesday and will continue until the coming Friday. Among the amateur stations successful in the tests are: Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.; S. H. Heap, Atlantic, Mass. (two stations owned by Heap heard); Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., and University of Vermont, Burlington (two university Vermont stations heard).

Smith College Girls Prepare For Careers in the Movies

ANITA LOOS. SHE TELLS SMITH COLLEGE GIRLS HOW TO SUCCEED IN THE PHOTOPLAY PROFESSION AND IN MATRIMONY. SHE HAS SUCCEEDED IN BOTH

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—More than one hundred of the young women students at fashionable Smith college are going to take up careers in the movies.

This was revealed recently when Miss Louise Lieber of Indianapolis, a student at the school and daughter of the president of First National Exhibitors, induced Anita Loos and John Emerson to speak on the movies as a career for women.

That's interesting. The only technicians in the photoplay industry today are those who developed their talents while in obscure positions in the industry, or those who took up a career in the films after they had established themselves in some other occupation.

Those in the former class often lack

the cultural background necessary to their work. Those in the latter class have the cultural background, but are deficient in their knowledge of the technical details that can be gained only by experience in studios.

The girls at Smith college who are bent upon a photoplay career do not combine their ambitions to acting alone.

For instance, Miss Muriel Crosby of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, declares that as soon as she leaves college she intends to take up all branches of the industry from scenario writing to directing and that eventually she intends to produce.

Miss Betty Tulloch of Ogdensburg, N. Y., intends to take a course at the Beaux Arts or School of Design to fit herself for scene designing and studio architecture.

A number intend to take up scenario writing. Among them are Isabel Stabler of Washington, D. C., Charlotte P. Vail of Cincinnati, Eleanor Ellings of Spokane, Wash., and Ruth Freer of Cleveland. Miss Freer also plans to study photoplay advertising.

The branches of the industry which the Smith college girls intend to enter are acting, scenario writing, directing, scene designing, historical and biographical research, costuming, directing and producing.

What of the girl who takes up a professional career, in the movies or other profession? Is she to forego matrimony?

Anita Loos had several interesting things to say on that score to the girls at Smith college. She has been writing scenarios 12 years. She is the wife of John Emerson, who also writes scenarios and directs pictures.

"The three most worth while things in a professional career for women," said Miss Loos, "are freedom, the meeting of men who are worth marrying and men and women who are the inspiration of fine friendships, and a certain amount of luxury from being commercially successful."

A Novel Setting
Classic dancers gyrate waist deep in soap bubbles in "A Blind Bargain" starring Lon Chaney. The set was designed by Cedric Gibbons. However, a similar idea was employed in Frank Tinney's stage show, "Tinkle Me."

Movie Snapshots
"Domestic Relations." Katherine MacDonald's next.
There are 143 movie theatres in the province of Saskatchewan.
Madge Evans is to be starred in "On the Banks of the Wabash."
Edith Roberts will be Wally Reid's heroine in "Across the Continent."
Rudolph Valentino will be Gloria Swanson's leading man in "Beyond the Rocks."

POLITICS ESCHEWED
Editor Lowell Sun:
Owing to the fact that false rumors have been spread in the city relative to the C.M.A.C. and its attitude towards political affairs, we wish to have it clearly understood:
First—That the C.M.A.C. is a fraternal organization, not a political club, and that no politics are ever discussed at any of its meetings.
Second—That the political rallies sometimes held in the assembly hall are not held under the auspices of the C.M.A.C., but under the patronage of the various candidates for office who have rented the hall.

C.M.A.C. BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

CHELSEA FIRE APPARATUS
The town of Chelsea received three pieces of fire apparatus Saturday afternoon. Each machine is equipped with two 25-gallon chemical tanks, three 50-foot lengths of chemical hose, a 25-foot extension ladder, axes, lanterns, etc. One was placed at the West station, the other at the South and the third at the East.

BILLERICA FIRE ALARM
The North Billerica fire alarm system which was put out of commission by the recent storm, has been restored temporarily. The system was out of commission for over a week but through the courtesy of the officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co., the batteries at the Central station were recharged with current from the trolley wires.

FIRE IN EAST BILLERICA
The home of Clarke Harris and its contents, located in East Billerica, were destroyed by fire last Friday. The blaze, the origin of which is not known, was discovered between 1 and 2 a. m.

CLOGGED BLOOD

WITHERS THE BODY

Workers Silk and Weak From Exertion Take Gude's Pepto-Mangan

Men and women who toil, either physically or mentally, use up energy. When they overwork they use up more energy, and sometimes the blood gets in a run-down condition. Without rest the blood cannot get back to normal, so that it becomes clogged with waste matter from over-exertion.

The clogged blood virtually withers the body. The strained looks on pale faces, the thin, bloodless arms, the sunken cheeks and necks, the deadened feeling, are the results of stale blood depriving the system of life-giving oxygen.

Workers go to the drug store and get Gude's Pepto-Mangan when they feel weak and run down. They take it in either the liquid or the tablet form. That makes the blood rich and red and drives out the poisons. Life-giving oxygen, carried by the little red cells, renews the strength and builds up the entire system. Look for the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. Adv.

NOVELIST TO WED HIS IDEAL

LONDON.—"Just like the heroine of a W. L. George novel. As beautiful, as witty, as attractive, as modern!" Folks used to say that about Miss Kathleen Geipel. W. L. George heard about it. He met her. Now, in truth, she'll be the heroine of a W. L. George romance. For the novelist will marry her this month! And they'll sail for America Dec. 21 and spend their honeymoon there. Miss Geipel is an expert tennis player and a talented pianist. She'll be the novelist's second wife.

SEEK MAN WHO STABBED ROYAL

The police today are continuing their search for a man who is alleged to have stabbed Earl Royal, of 115 East Merrimack street, during an argument in a Middlesex street lodging house. Sunday morning, Royal was removed to St. John's hospital, where it was found he was suffering from three knife wounds in the left upper part of his body. Today it was stated at the hospital that he was resting comfortably and was in no danger. According to the story related the police, Royal met his assailant in front of the Crown theatre late Saturday night and after having some drinks together engaged a room in a lodging house nearby. Early Sunday morning the two had an altercation it is claimed, and Royal received the knife wounds.

GARAGE ENTERED; AUTO STOLEN

The garage of C. J. Harvey in the rear of his residence at 1877 Bridge street, Braintree, was broken into between late last night and early this morning and a Humphrey touring car was stolen. Today the police of that town and this city are making a rigid investigation and hope to apprehend the culprits. According to information given The Sun by a member of the Harvey family, the lock on the door of the garage was broken and removed. It was stated that the family used the car last evening and placed it in the garage at about 9 o'clock. The door of the garage was locked. When Mr. Harvey went to get the car this morning, however, he found the lock broken, the door open and the auto missing. He immediately notified the police. At noon today no trace of the machine or the thieves had been found.

Promises to Give "Education Sway Over Everything"

By N.E.A. Service
VALPARAISO, Ind., Dec. 12.—Found the world's most cultured city—Valparaiso, seat of the university. Almost everybody in Valparaiso is a graduate of the university or an employee or has children attending it. And now the town has picked Edgerton W. Agar, college professor, as mayor. Agar's election was the result of women's influence. Agar has been teaching 27 years and he'll continue to teach even while he's mayor. "I shall put class room theory into the running of public affairs," Agar says. "I'll give education sway over everything. I'll abolish the spoils system."

COUNCILOR-AT-LARGE

A VOTE FOR MR. MCPADDEN MEANS A VOTE FOR A CLEAN AND ABLE YOUNG MAN IN YOUR NEW CITY COUNCIL

Mr. McPadden's splendid endorsement in the primaries indicates his election. It is agreed by those citizens who have met and listened to him campaigning that he is ABLY QUALIFIED to serve in the City Council.

You surely can make him ONE of the six councilors for whom you will vote and in doing so you will be amply rewarded by the high grade of public service he will render.

Signed, William H. Noonan,

2000 Quit Work in N. Y. Slaughter Houses

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Two thousand employees of slaughter houses in New York, members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters & Butcher Workers of North America, quit work suddenly today and left wagonloads of perishable beef in front of company plants. A report that a reduction in wages was imminent, caused the walkout, in the opinion of Leo Joseph, vice president of one of the meat companies. He asserted there was no foundation for such a report and declared the employers had an agreement with the union that does not expire until May 16. Officials of the union could not be reached. The strike affected only the concerns comprising what is known as "the big five." Independent butchers remained at work.

FOR COUNCILOR WARD THREE

The voters of Ward Three cannot afford to take chances. This district needs a man who has always lived here and who knows what the people want, and whose influence will help them to get it.

Louis J. Lord has all his interests in Ward Three. His investments are all in Ward Three. He is a business man whose dealings with people have brought him into touch with a majority of the people of his district. He is close to the people.

Under the new charter you will need just that type of leader. If your representative is not close to you now, he will be far above and away from you when he gets to city hall.

Civic Pride and the Mayoralty

Civic Pride, if nothing else, should guide a citizen in his or her vote at the polls tomorrow.

On a platform of Civic Pride and clean performance of Civic Duty, I submit I am entitled to your support.

Even though I may not be your "Ideal" in every particular as a public servant, Civic Pride in your city and the proper administration of your government should impel your support of my candidacy.

FOR THE REASON

That you are assured of a dignified and clean-cut administration of the Mayor's office. You know that strife, disorder, and perplexities will not govern my official conduct.

FOR THE REASON

That you are assured your city affairs will be conducted without sensationalism; but along lines of efficiency and honorable deportment.

FOR THE REASON

That no official act of mine will attract notoriety throughout the country to the office of the Mayor of the City of Lowell.

You have never blushed for any act of mine, public or private, during my tenure of office, which is the best evidence that you need have no cause for alarm or anxiety for the next two years after I am elected.

Two years is not too long for a good Mayor in office; but it is too long for a Mayor whose official acts you cannot anticipate from one day to another.

Remember you are voting for a Mayor not for a day, or a month, but for two years, and under a new charter, with vested powers that can make or break the city within that time.

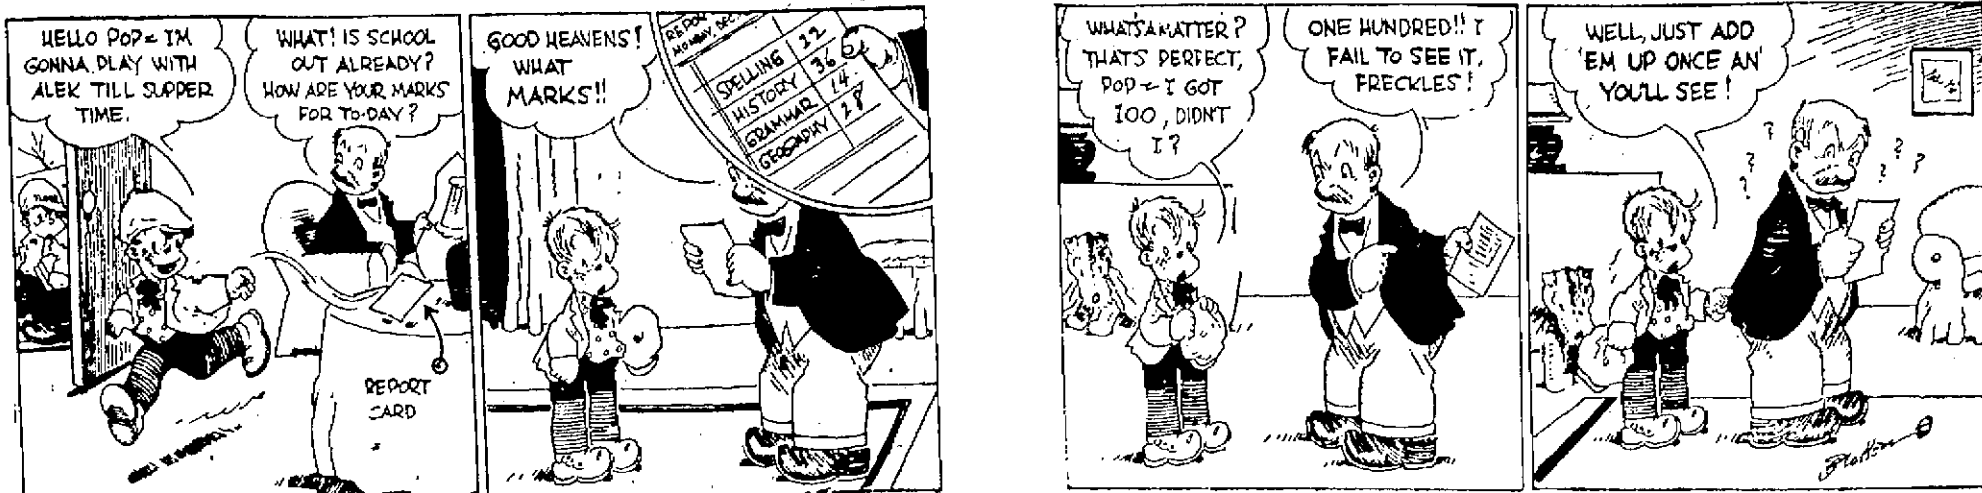

I will conduct the affairs of the city with calmness, with efficiency and ability, for I know the city's needs and how to proceed.

AGAIN LET ME SAY

Let Civic Pride in your city and institutions of government guide your vote tomorrow, and I am content confidently to await your verdict from this standpoint alone.

MORSE RETURNS TO AMERICA

Shipbuilder Whose Contracts Are Under Investigation Arrived at New York Today

Met at Pier by Two Sons— Declined to Make Statement When Questioned

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Silent as a sphinx, Charles W. Morse, shipbuilder, whose contracts are under investigation at Washington, returned to America today on the steamship Paris at the request of Attorney General Daugherty.

He was met by his two sons. On the pier also were four agents of the department of justice, but they declined to state whether their presence had anything to do with the return of Mr. Morse. No effort was made to serve a warrant.

Mr. Morse, whom fellow voyagers described as one of the most affable companions, shook hands with ship news reporters he knew and, standing on the upper deck in a chilling rain, permitted photographers to snap all the plates they carried.

But when reporters asked him whether he had any statement to make in connection with his case, Mr. Morse replied: "I absolutely decline to give any interview."

The financier said he intended going to his New York home and later would proceed to Washington. He gave no indication when he would take a train.

Porte, convicted robber, had been obtained early today.

Police reported at 9:50 a. m. they believed they had O'Connor surrounded in a house on the south side. Little squads and tear gas bombs equipped with bullet-proof steel shields mounted on wheels were despatched to the house.

A False Alarm

When the police arrived they found the tip was false. The man whom an excited neighbor had reported as resembling O'Connor had no likeness to the fugitive.

When the police rushed to the house they reported a surprised and appeared at the door and identified himself as Bishop Charles Anderson of the Episcopal church.

The escape, carried out in broad daylight, was the most sensational in this section of the country in many years and apparently was carefully planned in advance. It was successful despite the fact that several jailers refused to heed the threat of O'Connor's pistol and risked their lives in trying to obstruct his dash for liberty.

The two men who escaped with O'Connor were Edward Darrow, charged with a $50,000 robbery, and James Lannore, alleged to have been implicated in a $20,000 robbery. O'Connor had been in trouble with the police on many occasions, but his apparent immunity from conviction earned him the title of "Lucky Tommy."

Last spring half a dozen detectives went to O'Connor's house to question him about a crime. While they were there Policeman Patrick O'Neill was shot to death and O'Connor escaped despite the presence of half a dozen officers, most of whom were suspended for their apparent negligence.

Several weeks later O'Connor was captured in St. Paul, Minn., and was convicted here of Policeman O'Neill's murder. He was sentenced to be hanged.

Seventy-five prisoners were exercising in the ball-pen when O'Connor and his pals made their break yesterday. David Strauss was the only guard in the room at the time. One of the men, according to Strauss, suddenly whispered something to O'Connor. Five prisoners simultaneously jumped on Strauss, O'Connor drawing a revolver which had been smuggled to him. A shot was placed over Strauss' head and he was beaten into unconsciousness. O'Connor repeatedly brought down the butt of the pistol on the guard's head.

Hearing the commotion, two other guards rushed into the ball-pen. O'Connor ordered them to throw up their hands. But they refused and sprang forward. Apparently fearing that the sound of shooting would bring so many guards that escape would be impossible, O'Connor did not fire. The guards were beaten into unconsciousness.

One of the guards had the keys to the jail and these were taken from him.

The first guard called for the freight elevator, but ran into an assistant jailer. Pointing the revolver at him, O'Connor shouted "Stand back or I'll blow you to hell."

The jailer sprang at O'Connor, but the criminal, however, turned him to the door and continued his flight. Down to the basement past two more guards, the fugitive fled and then started to the stairs. He was carrying the keys and the two of the prisoners who had been with him at the time of the escape, and the other two, but never safely.

elections, and therefore each person who wishes to vote must appear at the polls in person. It is said that in all other cities in the state there has been a similar misunderstanding of this law.

Saturday Night's Events

A red hot windup to the municipal campaign was started on Saturday evening, when the mayoralty candidates and a number of others spoke at many places throughout the city, finishing at city hall and the corner of Bridge and Pudge streets.

At city hall a number of the councilor and school committee candidates spoke during the early part of the evening, including James J. Gallagher and Frank McMahon, for councilor at large, Eugene A. Fitzgerald, for councilor in ward 2, and Cornelius J. Sullivan for school committee.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the mayoralty candidates arrived. Mr. Brown reaching the spot first and paying his respects to the mayor and his campaign methods. Mayor Thompson followed closely on his opponent's heels, and spoke at considerable length, discussing the issues of the campaign and defending his administration. The meeting then adjourned to Pudge street.

Sunday Rallies

Yesterday afternoon there were several rallies at the Municipal Employees' union both mayoralty candidates discussed their candidacies and were followed by many other councilor and school committee candidates, including John A. Weinbeck, Edward M. Appleton, Frank McMahon, John J. McPadden, James J. Gallagher, Smith J. Adams, and Patrick J. Bagley, for councilor-at-large; Eugene A. Fitzgerald and Fred A. Sadlier for councilor in wards 2 and 4, respectively; and Thomas H. Deane for school committee. There were vocal selections by Edward Donahue, Frank Connor and others.

A rally in the interest of Mayor Thompson was held in A.O.U.H. hall yesterday afternoon, and practically the same candidates for councilor and school committee were heard, as at the Municipal Employees' union, with the addition of Cornelius J. Sullivan for school committee.

Rallies at Colonial hall and the C. M.A.C. club house were open to all candidates and a great many of them took advantage of the opportunities. The Greek Orthodox church in Jefferson street both mayoralty candidates spoke.

At the street department yard this morning when the men were waiting for the names to be called, Mr. Brown and a representative of Mayor Thompson spoke.

This evening the candidates for all offices will speak throughout the city, arriving in the downtown section at about the hour the theatres close. There should be plenty of excitement, if the candidates have anything at all which they have held in reserve for the closing hours.

Mr. Riley's Candidacy

In our notices of the various candidates in Saturday's Sun, we unintentionally slighted James H. Riley, candidate for the school board, in saying merely that he is a graduate of Lowell schools. He is also a graduate of Boston college, class of '19, and is now a law student at Boston university to graduate next June. He should be well qualified to serve on the school board.

EAGLES BAZAAR

OPENS TONIGHT

All roads will lead to the big bazaar which opens in the Casino tonight, under the auspices of the Lowell Aerie of Eagles in aid of the building fund of the organization. Elaborate preparations for this event, which is referred to as the greatest bazaar that will ever be seen in this city, have been completed and thousands of persons are expected to flock to the Thorndike street amusement building this evening and every evening for the rest of the week. The Casino has been handsomely decorated and will present a real holiday appearance when the affair gets under way tonight. An attractive setting of prettily adorned booths has been arranged around the spacious hall and these will be patronized by large throngs, the committee anticipates. A special program of entertainment will be held every evening and popular voting contests are to take place. Mayor Perry D. Thompson will officially open the bazaar this evening and besides the chief executive of the city other city and state dignitaries will be on hand.

INTIMATE ANECDOTES REVEAL THE SORT OF GIRL PRINCESS MARY IS

Children Think She's a "Very Nice Princess" and That Seems to Be the Popular Verdict on Girl Who'll Be 1922's Most Famous Bride—Mary Never Wanted Crown

PRINCESS' LIFE IN BRIEF

Born at York College, Sandringham, April 25, 1901.
Christened Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary.
Known as Diamond Jubilee baby because of her birth in year of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee.
Confirmed in 1913 by Archbishop of Canterbury.
Educated by Miss Dessau, under supervision of queen.
Hobbies: Music, riding, tennis, hunting, flower gardening and collecting china, pictures and photographs.
Leader in girl guide movement in Britain.
First public speech in 1919 at a rally of "land girls" in London.
 Betrothal announced Nov. 22, 1921.

CAMERA STUDIES OF PRINCESS MARY

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, Dec. 12.—"I'd like to know just what kind of a girl she is!" Millions of men and women have expressed that feeling since the engagement of Princess Mary, only daughter of the king and queen of England, was announced. And their curiosity has been quickened by the report that her fiancé, Lord Lascelles, may become governor general of Ireland.

"I want to be a woman—not a princess," Mary was just a little girl when she said this—but she has lived up to it ever since. She was with her queen mother at a children's bazaar. She overheard a youngster say, "Mamma, I thought princesses were crowns."

"When do I get a crown?" Mary asked the queen.

"When you marry a king," her mother replied.

"Then I'll never have a crown," said Mary; adding, "I want to be a woman—not a princess."

Mary and her eldest brother, the Prince of Wales, have always been close pals.

When the prince entered Dartmouth he was immensely proud of his naval cadet's uniform.

One morning he found on his plate a package which had come by mail.

Opening it he discovered a doll dressed like himself and labeled in his sister's handwriting:

"Isn't he pretty?"

Mary when she went shopping with a governess. She wanted a broom. It must be little and stiff.

The salespeople and the governess tried to persuade her to buy something else, but she replied:

"No, I want a broom! Henry (her brother) is lazy. I want him to learn to sweep the paths in the garden."

One of the first things the queen taught Mary was to mend and sew. She used to mend the socks of her brothers.

During the war she knitted with all the other girls.

One day something went wrong with a sewing machine at Balmoral castle. The princess met the girl mechanic sent to repair it and exclaimed:

"Oh, let me try! I am rather good with machinery and it's great fun fixing things."

She took the machine to pieces, put it together again and it ran perfectly!

Another thing the queen taught her was the art of cookery.

Asked what kind of cooking she liked best, Mary replied with candor: "I like to make something that I myself can eat afterward."

One of the things she likes to cook is cake.

Mary is the linguist of the royal family. She knows something of all the Scandinavian languages, speaks Spanish and Italian fairly well. German very well and French excellently.

She also knows out letters on the typewriter and has written some of her father's more intimate correspondence. It was these accomplishments among others that led the Prince of Wales to sigh:

"What a pity it isn't Mary who'll be king! She is so clever, you see."

When Mary was 12, she was rowing on the Thames with her brothers.

A boat containing three Eton students bumped into the royal skiff.

There was nothing to indicate that either the vessel or its owners were royalty. One of the Etonites angrily asked:

"When are you going to learn to row?"

Just as angrily, little Mary replied: "When you learn manners."

This same kid at that age had very little reverence for the high and mighty lords who came to call on papa, the king.

For instance, there is the grave Privy council. To Princess Mary it was the "Dilly Wig."

One day she called a privy council for a "Dilly Wig" in her father's presence. Papa, the king, gave her a very severe lecture.

On the day that her betrothal was announced she visited the 105 in the Royal Sussex County hospital, stopping at each bedside to talk to the sick ones.

"Are you a real princess?" asked one kid.

Mary admitted the charge.

"Well," said the child, "I like you. I think you are a very nice princess."

And that seems to be the popular verdict on the girl who'll be 1922's most talked of bride.

Hotel Bars Reopen at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 12.—The sudden growth in the number of Vancouver clubs licensed to sell malt liquor to members has resulted in the reopening of about 15 hotel bars with similar licenses as a test of the prohibition restrictions. Membership in the hotel "clubs" costs 10 cents and business is flourishing. This action of the hotel proprietors, to meet competition of the clubs, thus far has brought no interference from police officials who decided at a conference that they could do nothing until Feb. 1, when the new charter giving the city control and regulation of all clubs, becomes effective.

MATHEW TEMPERANCE INSTITUTE MEETING

The semi-annual election of officers by the Mathew Temperance Institute will take place at the last meeting in December, and in preparation for this event nominating committees were appointed at yesterday's meeting. The committees appointed follow: committee number one, Herbert Nugent, John J. Callahan and Walter M. Quinn; committee number two, Frank P. Carroll, John Conlon and Joseph O'Loughlin. It is expected that there will be a number of candidates for every office.

The Christmas tree committee reported rapid progress is being made, and an enjoyable party is indicated by the members' co-operation. The lady friends of the institute are aiding the committee greatly.

The following committee was appointed to take charge of the annual New Year social: Walter M. Quinn, Thomas J. Tiche, Bernard H. Roarke, John Conlon and Frank P. Carroll.

A weekly rehearsal of the musical troupe followed the meeting, and Director Paul J. Angelo was quite satisfied with the progress made by the members of the chorus.

IMPORTANCE OF A SINGLE VOTE

We believe it was John Stuart Mill who said that there never can be much progress in moral reform until the masses of the people come to realize that a single sin may work immeasurable evil to future generations, and thus go on in its evil consequences to the end of time.

In a similar way a single vote which may in certain cases decide an election, may be of supreme importance in its consequences to the city. If it should put unlit men in office, there is no telling what injury might result or what a loss it might bring to the municipality as a whole. Moreover, the injury or the loss may not be limited to a single year or a single term in office, but may have cumulative consequences to be inflicted upon the community as time rolls on and generations come and go. There are instances of this in our politics at the present hour, resulting from mistakes made by the electorate in past years. They come down as a legacy of evil, and there is no telling when they will be completely overcome.

To avoid such mistakes in the future and to counteract those of the past, so far as is possible, the voters of Lowell in tomorrow's election will have to exercise sound judgment and in the exercise of the power placed in their hands, they will have to forget or overcome whatever petty spites may have been engendered by the primary contests; they will have to exercise patriotism and civic pride in voting for the best and most capable candidates available, so that our next city government may be a credit to our city and bring rewards to the people in lower taxes, lower rents, improved service in every department and better industrial conditions so that the people now in enforced idleness, may find profitable employment. In this republic the sovereign power is placed in the hands of the people and it is exercised by the citizens in the polling booth on election day.

To use that power to satisfy petty spite or for unworthy candidates, would be to sacrifice the highest principle of American freedom, to stab our city in the back and strike a blow at the interests of all the people. There is an old rule that voters may well apply in this case, particularly in reference to the mayoralty. It is, "When in doubt, don't." There is every reason to doubt that Mayor Thompson's opponent would serve the city as creditably and capably as the present incumbent. Hence the course of wisdom and safety lies in re-electing Mayor Thompson.

Now that election day is at hand, that we have to choose the city government for the next two years, it is presumed that the voters or most of them have made up their minds as to the candidates for whom they will vote.

For the benefit of those who may still be wavering, we may say a word relative to the necessity of voting only for capable and conservative candidates for all offices. Popular interest centres mainly in the mayoralty contest and very properly so inasmuch as the chief executive of our city for the first two years under the new charter will have the opportunity to set the pace for future administrations.

The mayor's salary is to be $5000 a year, yet not this so much as the power and responsibility vested in that official under the new charter, make it imperative to select the candidate who is more likely to give the citizens an honest, economic, business-like and progressive administration of affairs.

The liquor issue has been injected into the campaign for the purpose of prejudicing the candidacy of Mayor Thompson, but the record of arrests and convictions should be sufficient to refute all the ridiculous stories put in circulation in regard to the liquor business. It should be remembered that every city in the commonwealth has experienced trouble with the prohibition law and very few of them have succeeded in enforcing the law as effectively as has the city of Lowell.

The voters must not be misled by false issues into voting for unfit or undesirable men and this rule should apply equally to the selection of candidates for all the offices to be filled.

The voters are to select their public servants to conduct the city's business for the next two years. Let every citizen do his or her full duty in voting for an administration to be characterized by honesty, decency and efficiency. That will insure success. Any other course may bring failure, turmoil, ignominy and disgrace.

Some of the voters are likely to be imposed upon by the slogan used by several candidates relative of "cleaning out city hall." The new charter removes the present officials and heads of departments automatically so that this task is not left to the newly elected officials.

One would suppose from such language that some of the officials now holding office at city hall were to be allowed to remain and that the election of a particular candidate would turn them out. The men who are to go out of office will go out when their successors are chosen regardless of who is elected mayor. The mayor of the city has actually nothing to do with the removal of any of the officials of the old city government. The new charter provides that the members of certain commissions such as the license board, the park board, the cemetery trustees, the election commission and the trustees of the public library, will be allowed to serve out their current terms of office and when a vacancy occurs on any of these boards, it will be filled by nomination by the mayor subject to confirmation by the council.

Three of the principal officials, namely, the city clerk, treasurer and auditor, will be elected by the council regardless of the mayor. All the other offices will be filled by nomination by the mayor subject to confirmation by the council.

It is plain, therefore, that the mayor, under the new charter, will be unable to put men to work some as he was in the past. He will be unable to remove any of the officials of the city government.

Under the new charter, the mayor will be the executive head of the municipal departments, and each department will be under his supervision. He will be responsible for the results and who will have charge of the employment of labor. It will take some time for the citizens to become familiar with the radical difference between the old system and the new, especially in regard to the management of the municipal departments and the mode of holding the superintendent of each responsible to the mayor.

Under the present charter the superintendent is of secondary importance and the commissioner, whether he is familiar with the business or not, is the main figure.

It must be obvious, therefore, that regardless of which candidate is elected mayor, the old city government, with the exceptions mentioned will be automatically renewed and the new installed under the rules provided by the new charter. This slogan of

Berton Bratey's Daily Poem MEMORIES

Those good old songs, those tender songs,
Those southern ballads gentle,
That always make the madding throng Grow soft and sentimental—
"Oh take me back to Tennessee
And let me see my mammy,
My mammy dear who waits for me
Down South in Alabama!"

Those songs that say, "Oh let me roam
Down where the live oaks quiver—
Half-stolen from 'Kentucky Home'
And half from 'Swanee River'."
These song-composing gentlemen
Sing, "Dixie-Land is My Land,"
"Swanee River," "The Old Folks Home,"
"Down South in Alabama!"

Oh how I love those southern songs
(Although they're slightly funny)
About the home-land and who longs
To be back in Dixie-land.
Those Dixie songs, those Dixie songs,
That crown so beautifully
Those four old, rare old southern songs
That come from Tin Pan Alley.

If prisons must go, let's start with that obsolete old granite pile that depresses everyone passing by the state prison in Charlestown. The present value of the land and buildings is estimated at $1,000,000, which would go a long way toward erecting a modern, sanitary correctional institution in some country hamlet that would refund to the credit of all reformatory experts campaigning for healthier and more sanitary institutions of this kind. The dungeons of Charlestown should be done away with forever.

Whether city work shall be done by contract is not an issue in this campaign and it is brought forward only to mislead the people. Some kinds of city work such as the construction of bridges and certain buildings will continue to be done by contract, but that in all Mayor Thompson has not been an advocate of contract labor in street construction and repairs.

Whether Lowell will have sane, decent and progressive government for the next two years depends largely upon the attitude of the women voters in tomorrow's election.

It is expected that every voter who is physically able to go to the polls tomorrow will exercise that privilege. It is hoped for the best interests of Lowell.

False stories regarding Mayor Thompson and the liquor business are put out chiefly to cause the women to vote against him. How many of them will swallow the bait?

Do the "new voters" know any more about the pros and cons of local politics than the old hands? If so, they should have no trouble in marking their ballots next Tuesday.

Very Objectifiable

"Here, give him some of this," he said, exhibiting a whiskey flask in his hand. "Yes," said the vicar, "but I don't know who it was." "I'll find him for you," said Jack. "You don't say so," said Jack nervously. "Yes, I do," said the vicar, and the good man produced the enlargement. "I see faint no good denying it," he said with a look of resignation. "I pinched your fruit," he said, "but I gave you that impression of the seat of my trousers in hanged if I know."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Fit to Lead
In times of wild discussion, While things on earth endure, An ounce of mild prevention Will spare us pounds of cure. The man who swears the most, When all about him sear, Is not the chap who starts a scrap, But he who keeps his head.

While some insist on raving, To ease their fevered minds, He turns his wits to saving, Whatever truth he finds. They chafe and stamp and bellow, He bides his time in silence, When they are through, he gives his view. This man who keeps his head.

The ties that wrath has broken, The bonds that rage has loosed, When he has calmly spoken, And he who stands in a crowd, Find all their fury dead. Repentant men shake hands again, For him who keeps his head.

Our tempers cheat us badly, When earth's confusing roads Seem crisscrossing so madly, They try our souls like goads. We're lost, we're lost to follow, Until we hear the voice of God. Of one who leads a prince of deeds, The man who keeps his head.

Among the familiar figures to be seen regularly about one of the entrances to the Massachusetts mills on East Merrimack street is a tall, smooth-faced gentleman, wearing a cap, a long black overcoat and black suit, with a neat pair of black shoes always kept spotlessly clean. He is known to every passerby—Is William Cornell. He rarely talks, but when he does he generally has something to say and no one gets by the big gates on East Merrimack street who doesn't have the password or has no business there. He also keeps his eyes on the gates across the street in the other direction, although he is not on guard there. Cornell is one of the faithful men who keeps the mills of Lowell from being overrun by people apt to hang around the entrance frequently. The guards are absolutely necessary to prevent interference with hard work and to keep out the curious who sometimes want to get in and "look around."

When you want to meet a real Centralville booster, drop in on any one of the Perreaults of that hamlet across the river, and get acquainted. "The Perreaults of Centralville," as they are known in social as well as business circles, are a regular folk to meet, and they are widely known to, especially in French-speaking circles. Numerous friends of theirs bound for Canada, for the holidays, drop in to see George or Edward or Romeo before departing for the border. The Perreaults belong to a number of local social organizations, too, and are always warm supporters of any movement that will keep Centralville on the map. They never miss any horse-drawn meetings where some speakers are seeking support for some movement tending to keep tabs on the "men higher up" when it comes to improvements of streets, new playgrounds, park areas or better street car service. The Perreaults have long been noted for their gentility as well as their strict integrity, and they are Lowell boosters every day in the year, even if they do like to get away

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres Own Press Agents
H. P. KEITH'S THEATRE
Wad to listen to the gay dance tunes of Merle Scotland, was to see the boys and girls of that beautiful band, the Merle Scotland Orchestra, hear the sweetest of love songs of Burns—then go to the H. P. Keith theatre, this week, where Jack Wyatt and his clan have here served at times before, but have never visited about every city in this country and Canada. The continued success of the act depends very largely upon the painstaking care lavished on the program, released from mortal clay, come back and touches shoulders with the folk of this vale of tears, without being seen or heard by anyone but his small grandson. The public at large has begun to wonder how this is possible between this world and the next. Mr. Meehan in "Friend Jim" has not treated the subject as seriously as most of the writers, but has taken the angle that if the good spirits can return to do a little good, so can the evil ones do harm and around this he has woven a fantastic, mysterious comedy. It is a romance of two worlds—a story of a man who gets in the grip of something that he does not understand and the lights of the theatre girl who does. It is a modern story that moves swiftly and vividly into a thrilling and surprising finale. Mr. Meehan plays the central figure and he will receive the excellent support of the entire local company.

Mr. Meehan is due to leave for London, in company with George M. Cohen and other lights of the theatre world, early in the year. Lowell people should consider themselves specially privileged to witness what promises to be his stage success, before Broadway has the opportunity. It is advisable to order your tickets well in advance. Capacity audiences expected at all performances. Tel. 321.

"WAY DOWN EAST"
D. W. Griffith's new art wonder picture spectacle, "Way Down East," is to be the attraction at the Rialto theatre, commencing here today and continuing for one week. Taken from the play of the same title it is the sensation of the current theatrical year. Nothing like it has been seen here before. In the theatre before and its record is the most astonishing thing of the kind known to date.

The simple tale of the original play with its pastoral background, its plain people and its quaint humors has been enlarged upon to such an extent that not only a new drama has been woven about the love story of Anna Moore and David Bartlett but a new form of art in which to express the theme is involved. Murders of exquisite beauty, its scenes of exquisite beauty, in a pictorial sense, hearty laughter accompanies the foolish antics and the simple drollery of its reliving characters and a soul stirring interest rushes with its unfolding to a climax the like of which was never known on any stage in the world until Griffith broke through the barrier of stage and screen and brought the story of the four forces of "Way Down East" and has drawn so much comment that it is breaking records in every city where it is being presented.

One of the greatest casts ever known on stage or screen is shown in the picture and the action is accompanied by a special orchestra and score that adds charm and intensity to a story of singular appeal and power.

Children generally like to draw pictures as soon as they learn what a pencil or pen is made for. And I notice some new things in the Christmas gift stores that are ready for the children's inspection, or rather for their Christmas stockings. A device which is attracting interest as a gift for little artists, is being shown in the form of a large drawing board, to which is attached a mechanism by which a child may reproduce in enlarged size any picture which he may desire to copy. The pictures may be produced in pencil, crayon or water colors on paper and on blackboard. The drawing to be copied is attached at the top of the drawing board, and by means of the device, which consists of three different lengths of wood attached to each other, on pins, an exact and enlarged reproduction of the picture being drawn can be made on the paper attached below.

With the advent of cases of alleged rabies among canines in Chelmsford and Lawrence, Veterinary Surgeon William H. Faxon told The Man About Town today that all owners of Lowell dogs would be doing a public service if they reported any instances of sick dogs to the veterinary of the Lowell Humane society, where the agent can generally be found every day. The free clinics for dogs, cats and other pets are continued each Thursday at the society rooms. This week was the busiest the surgeon has tackled, dogs coming in all the way from Tewksbury and eight varieties being noted.

ENGINEER TOLD HE COULDN'T GET WELL

"After my first few doses of Tanlac I commenced to pick right up and in a month's time was able to drive my car, mow the lawn and do any other work about the house." This is what Henry B. Minard, passenger engineer on the Grand Trunk railroad, between Portland, Me., and Island Pond, Ver., recently declared. The Master Medicine recommended for him after his case had been given up as hopeless. Mr. Minard's home address is Prospect road, Yarmouth, Me.

"Seven months ago," explained Mr. Minard, "I had to give up work on account of what they call anemia. I was laid up and under treatment for three months, but kept getting worse. A test showed my blood pressure down to the alarming point and, finally, all medicines were stopped and I was given up as having only a short time to live. A stranger, who overheard a friend of mine discussing my case with other railroad men on the train, asked why they did not have me try Tanlac. So, without my friend's home in Island Pond he sent word back to get me Tanlac. When I began taking it I also had a bad stomach and was taking a lot of medicine. But in a short time I was out of bed, eating like a pig, and rapidly getting strong. I was also restless and could not sleep. I slept good and sound. A short time ago I stepped back in Yarmouth and have been working every day, fixing it up. My recovery has been a surprise to all who knew of my desperate condition, and I know of dozens of people who are now taking Tanlac on the strength of what it has done for me."

Arms Congress Far Advanced Toward Achievement of its Announced Objective

Visiting Delegations Discuss
—Review of Work

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press) The beginning of the second month of the international conference on limitation of armament—to give the official title—finds the conference so far advanced toward achievement of its announced objectives that in practically every visiting delegations discussion of home

ward reservations has become a matter of immediate importance.

Outstanding in any tabulation of accomplishments is the four power agreement reached in plenary session Saturday. By this covenant the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan agreed "as between themselves to respect their rights in relation to their insular possessions and dominions in the region of the Pacific ocean" for the next 10 years.

Upon ratification of this agreement, the Anglo-Japanese alliance, long regarded with distrust in the United States and several British dominions will be abrogated.

Limitation of naval armaments, the first subject on the conference agenda, remains practically in the status in which it was found after Secretary Hughes had declared the American proposal for reduction of capital ships to a 5-5-3 ratio basis between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

of Pacific naval bases and fortifications upon which no formal action has yet been taken but, it is understood, Japan has received assurance of a continuation of the status quo.

Land armaments have not yet been taken up beyond the general discussion which followed the address to the conference of Premier Briand of France outlining the position of that country toward any proposal for reduction. It is the general impression that land forces in themselves will not be taken up for any definite action at the present meeting. Certain phases of the subject, however, will necessarily be considered by the committee to which was referred the task of drawing up rules of warfare.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CHARITY CONCERT

Before an audience that filled St. Patrick's school hall on Suffolk street last evening, the Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's parish held its annual Christmas charity concert. A substantial sum for the society's Christmas fund was realized and will be used for the Christmas happiness of the parish poor; the increase in the fund through the success of last evening's entertainment will enable the members of the society to do this good work quite thoroughly this year.

The decorations about the hall were pleasing to the eye and the red, white and blue of the flag were prominent. The program follows:

Overture. Minnie Doyle's orchestra.
Song, Little Mother of Mine, Joseph M. Kelly.
Soprano solo, Valerie Marie.
Miss Nellie Lynch.
Vocal Duet: In the Garden of My Heart.
John McMahon and George Kirwin.
Tenor solo, selected.
Edward Donohue, assisted by John Hall.

Interpretive reading of the Minuet, Miss Anna K. Mullen and Miss Dorothy M. Mullen.
Baritone solo, selected.
James E. Donnelly.
Soprano solo, selected.
Mrs. Nora Regan Longtin.
Contralto solo: Close to My Heart, Miss Mary Mack.

Vocal duet, selected.
Fred Cummings and Raymond Kelly.
Musical novelty and The Star Spangled Banner.
Minnie Doyle's orchestra.
The interpretive reading by the Mullen sisters was highly enjoyed and elicited great applause. It was the most enjoyable feature of the program. The sisters wore pretty colonial costumes and exhibited splendid voice. These girls are also talented vocalists. The other numbers were also well received.

The accompanists of the evening were Mrs. Alice Donnelly McLaughlin, John J. Kelly and John Ball.

The committee on arrangements was: Mrs. Delia T. Donohue, chairman; Mrs. Joseph W. Green, Mrs. Patrick J. Hagley, Mrs. Charles Brennan, Mrs. A. Leide Parent, Mrs. Edward Perry, Miss Minnie Courtney and Miss Elizabeth Lyon.

The decorations committee consisted of Miss Nellie Roarke, chairman; Miss Bridget Roarke and Mrs. Maria Cummins. The printing committee included Mrs. Della T. Donohue, chairman; Miss Josephine Lyon and Miss Helen Coughlin.

"Diapepsin" for Bad Stomach, Indigestion

Take "Diapepsin" now! In five minutes your stomach feels fine. Don't bother what upset your stomach or which portion of the food did the damage. If your stomach is sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; you belch gases and acids and cravate undigested food—just take a little Diapepsin in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods with out fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Diapepsin, which costs only 60 cents for a large case at drug stores.—Adv.

CHELMSFORD GUILD CONDUCTS SALE

The sale conducted by the members of the guild of All Saints' church of Chelmsford Centre Saturday afternoon was a success in every way. There was a large attendance at the sale, and it is reported that all spent freely. The tables and those in charge were as follows: Household table, Mrs. Edwin Erickson, Mrs. Stanley Marshall, Miss A. V. Pausche and Mrs. Theodore Parler, Candy table, Mrs. Richard Hill, Mrs. Emma Stone, Miss Edith Charlton, Mrs. Thomas Beckwith, Mrs. Roy Hannaford and Miss Frances Clark. Food table, Mrs. Oliver Erickson, Mrs. Frank Huddle, Miss Ida Pausche, Mrs. Walter McMahon, Mrs. Hansen and Mrs. John J. Middleton. In the pushing contest the holiday cake donated by Mrs. Middleton was won by Mrs. Walter McMahon.

DYED HER DRAPERIES AND A FADED SKIRT

"Diamond Dyes" add years of wear to worn, faded skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, hangings, draperies, everything. Every package contains directions so simple any woman can put new, rich, fadeless colors into her worn garments or draperies even if she has never dyed before. Just buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then your material will come out right, because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to streak, spot, fade, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods.—Adv.

BUSTER WRECKS THE PRIZE RELIC

DOES THIS FROCK SUIT YOU?

BY MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Have you light hair, which curls frivolously, follows no particular line, and looks best that way?

Have you small features—piquant, and something of a tang in your whole personality?

Then such a frock as this Claire model, naive collar, puffed sleeves, touched with bright humanian embroidery, is the one which will suit your particular type best.

For you there should be no long dignified lines, nothing classic. The skirt sports an elaborate apron effect, five interesting tiers of finely plaited material fall softly over each other. Aprons, one notices, are exceedingly popular as a means of enlivening the short and quite plain skirts young girls are wearing.

At the waistline is a fascinating swath of gaily colored beads, wound into a heavy cord and finished at the ends with clever, brightly-hued ornaments.

BOXING

Sailor Darden, who comes here Thursday night to box, will meet Billy Carney of New Bedford, and not "Jim Carney" who is a boxer, as stated several times in another paper. Billy Carney is known throughout New England as one of the most aggressive welterweights in this section. He has never before appeared here, but has boxed in Boston, New Bedford, Fall River, Portland, Providence and many other places. He has met Eddie Shevlin, Paul Doyle, Louis Bogach, Barney Adair, Johnny Clinton and practically every other man of his weight of importance.

Carney has the reputation of never having been knocked out of his feet. He has been beaten, but no man, according to word from New Bedford, has ever been credited with a clean cut knockout over him.

In tackling Sailor Darden, Carney will meet a real fighter and a fast fighter. Darden in his bout here with Eddie Kelley travelled at a fast and furious pace over the entire journey and only Kelley's exceptional foot work and ring generalship enabled him to stay the limit. Darden has met Panama Joe Gans, Johnny Clinton, Paddy Flynn and many other notables.

Tommy Jordan of New Bedford, a springing barman of many a night and a high class workman who has been appearing in many events in Lynn and other places, will take on "Ginbat" Jack Lawrence in the semi-final number Thursday night. Jordan comes here with the promise that if he makes good he will secure return engagements. He is confident of winning over the hard hitting "gunboat" and then go against any man the local promoter may select.

Young Loran of Centralville and Young Parker of the C.M.A.C., two likely boys who have been going along successfully in recent weeks, will hook up in one of the preliminaries.

Eddie Shevlin, New England welterweight champion, and Paul Doyle, a most formidable contender, have been matched to meet in a ten round number at Boston, December 10.

Having recovered what he considers his regular fighting condition, Bobby Josephs now is ready to tackle any of the men in his class. He particularly would like to engage Chick Suggs, Charley Elkins, Mike Castle, Paul Demers or Al Shubert.

A number of boxers who retire from the active side of the game are directing their efforts in managing and developing new luminaries in the fighting sport. Eddie May has quit the game, but will endeavor to manage a stable of boxers.

George Chaney, Baltimore's K. O. lightweight, would like another crack at Johnny Dundee for the junior lightweight title.

Charley White claims to have received offers to fight in Boston, but turned them down when he learned that the clubs would not guarantee him anything but a percentage. White demands a guarantee in all his fights, but soon will learn that the days of large purses for fighters are a thing of the past.

Today's Sport Angle

It is impossible to estimate what the loss of Ruth means to the New York Yankees and the American League. The inability of Ruth to play until May 20, may prevent the New York club from repeating as the American League pennant winner.

The presence of Ruth in the New York lineup is most important to the success of the club. His real value to the Yankees was made apparent in the recent world series.

Without Ruth the Yankees lack the tremendous punch that he supplies. His absence likewise removes the big threat. With him out, opposing pitchers have nothing to worry about.

It is very conservative to say that Ruth's absence from the game will cost the Yankees $100,000 in real money. The other seven clubs will lose between them an equal amount.

The three eastern clubs, Boston, Philadelphia and Washington, will be the heaviest sufferers. These teams play against the New York team during the first month of the season.

With Ruth out of the lineup the game is going to suffer heavily. Ruth is the big card. Without him the Yankees are going to lose a lot of color. There is always much interest in his spring showing, as compared to his efforts of the previous year.

If the Yankees get away to a bad start in the spring, due to the absence of Ruth, the effect is going to be felt throughout the year.

It will mean that the New York club will suffer to a much greater extent than $100,000. That amount was merely figured on the spring games which would be played without him in the lineup.

If his absence is the cause of the Yankees losing the pennant, and thereby the right to play in the series, the damage becomes all the greater.

Ruth will be missed in more ways than one, on the field, at the gate, in the sport sheets.

The New York club will also suffer in other directions as a result of the family decision. Bob Meusel, who is also out of the running until May 20, is a remarkable hitter. Bill Pierce, also suspended, is a pretty fair pitcher.

One Thrown Ball Wrecks George McBride's Career

GEORGE MCBRIDE
FORMER MANAGER OF WASHINGTON
BALL CLUB

CLYDE MILAN

BY BILLY EVANS

A badly thrown ball from the outfield has cost George McBride his position as a big league manager.

McBride tendered his resignation to the Washington club several days ago. That badly thrown ball gave "Zel" Milan his chance to show his worth as a big league manager.

Milan is being prominently mentioned as McBride's successor.

During field practice, just before a game played at Washington early in August, the incident occurred that proved most unfortunate for McBride and equally fortunate for Milan.

McBride, as was his custom, was batting the ball to his infielders. Another Washington player standing nearby was hitting fly balls to the outfielders.

In this connection I might say that I have often wondered why so few players are injured, while the final practice of the day is engaged in. Usually half a dozen balls are being thrown about in a reckless manner.

Earl Smith, playing the outfield, after catching a fly ball returned it to the plate. Smith has a good arm and cut the ball loose. Instead of going to the player who was batting the fly ball, it struck a rough spot, took a freakish bound and hit McBride on the side of the face.

Was Badly Injured

The ball struck just below the eye and to the side of the nose. It inflicted a bad cut, and later paralyzed that side of the face, as well as playing havoc with McBride's nervous system. McBride was taken to a hospital and was out of commission for two weeks.

Milan was appointed manager to fill in for McBride's absence. He made a most remarkable showing. Under his direction the Washington club won eleven straight games. That run of victories causes a lot of the experts to consider the team a pennant contender.

It is a rather unusual fact, that the day McBride returned the winning streak was broken.

McBride gave great promise in his first year as a big leaguer. However, his health has been so shaken by the injury, that he has decided to retire from active work, temporarily at least.

Milan, who never gave much thought to managing a ball club, now has such an ambition. This is the way he put it to me one day.

"I would like to get another chance at managing a big league club. I would like to see whether or not winning those eleven straight was a mistake."

BOWLING

At a recent meeting of the members of the Military Bowling League the following officers were elected: Lieut. George Faneuf, president; Capt. Arthur H. Gashin, vice president; Lieut. G. D. Crowell, secretary; Serjeant, Cyrie Decimari, treasurer. The league consists of six teams, which are as follows: Team 1, Battery, C. Williams, H. Clarke, captain; Team 2, Battery, Walter Mitchell, captain; Team 3, Co. M. Al. Ann, captain; Team 4, Battery, Sergeant, Driscoll, captain; Team 5, H. M. Alfred Gagnon, captain. Billy Evans Says:

Failure of the big money to be included in the draft kept the majors from taking a chance on many a promising player. The managers were willing to pay the draft price, but not in such a quiet fashion that the owners demanded.

After the critics get through trading the stock of the Pittsburgh club, Barney Dreyfus won't have any of his 1921 team left. According to the experts, Dreyfus is willing to part with any of his players, if he can get value in return.

Few pitchers are classed as good hitters. Walter Johnson is an exception. He is often called on as pinch hitter by the Nationals.

Report has it that the New York Yankees intend disposing of "Big" Collins. He could be one of the greatest pitchers in the game if he took it seriously.

Jim Thorpe says playing football slows up an athlete who wants to shine as a ball player. Probably is true, but it doesn't seem to work in Jim's case.

BIG BASEBALL DEALS EXPECTED

Big League Meetings in New York Expected to Result in Many Trades

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Manhattan, exclusive scene of the last week's action in baseball, bubbled again today with chatter of the national pastime and blundered its eyes in a whirlwind of draft and deal.

Owners, managers, players and officials gathered for the annual National League meeting and other major league meetings, to discuss conferences that were expected to result before the end of the week, in a series of trades and purchases that would place many stars and near-stars in different uniforms next season.

The International League meeting got under way today with President T. J. Murphy, president of the league, discussing the efforts of syndicates in Montreal and Providence to re-enter the league through the purchase of franchises now held by Syracuse and Jersey City.

The majors, facing peaceful seasons, were talking a great deal of trades and purchases and trading their players as such subjects as the draft, the proposed seven-game world's series suggested by Judge Landis and the high price of new stars and near-stars for their best performers.

The Cubs, the Pirates, the Brooklyn, the Braves, and nearly all the other National League clubs owned by managers announced they were in the market for players and were ready to talk business. The Yankees and the Tigers were the most active in the trade and cash deal, whereby Ethmer and Vanech would come to New York and the Reds appeared to be negotiating with officials of the Cincinnati Reds for the purchase of the best deal of his career, and Pat Moran, his able manager, would be sent to Cincinnati.

Barney Dreyfus was talking about trading his star pitcher, Groh, to the Boston Red Sox, and estimating that he would pay a pretty penny for him. Groh, who had a few things to say about his team and its manager, had been a star pitcher for the Southern Association last fall, and it was gathered that the Pirates wouldn't be averse to letting "Habib" Maravich loose if they could do so in a trade.

Bill Killefer and President Veck let it be known that they would like a good second baseman, and a third sacker and may be another man.

Another win for Abbot soccer team

The Abbot worsted soccer team added another feather to its well padded rap Saturday at Lynn by defeating the Gray & Davis team in the third round of the state cup by a score of 2 to 0. The Abbot have been drawn to meet the Fall River Rovers of Fall River, R. I., in the fourth round of the state cup, and the contest will be played on or before December 19.

The better team won Saturday's game. Of this there is not the slightest doubt. The contest was a close one, but the Abbot were unable to take advantage of them for the reason the Abbot were not in position to take advantage of them. Luck of color has kept George Burns, recently traded by the New York Giants to Cincinnati, from being one of the most talked of players in the game. Burns does his work in such a quiet fashion that he seldom attracts attention.

When it comes to being lucky, past the last of the "Big" Sales, Altonah "Film" has been through as a great pitcher for a number of years, he has shared in three of the last five World Series with the Giants. In 1917, Cincinnati in 1918 and back with the Giants in 1921.

Manager Phil of the St. Louis Browns has high hopes for Phil Toots in a recruit from Tulsa. He is of the "lucifer" type, and if he can hit major league pitching will be a handy man for the Browns as he can play first base or the outfield.

Major league managers have their eyes on Stuart and Huffman of Ohio state university. Both are star baseball players as well as basketball men. Huffman graduates in June, and may take a shot at professional ball. He is a catcher.

will enter the semi-finals for the state championships. The lineup:

TO COST $1,500,000
Estimate of Cost to Telephone Co. to Repair Wires Damaged by Storm

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—More than 100,000,000 feet of various kinds of wire, or nearly enough to girdle the earth, has been temporarily laid on the ground or attached to fences and pole stumps during the past ten days. In order to restore our service at the earliest possible moment," said General Manager Driver of the Telephone Company yesterday.

"To show the magnitude of our problem, two orders for copper wire aggregated 400,000 pounds each. We have on hand or on the way 12 carloads of crossarms, six carloads of pole line hardware, and over 50 carloads of poles. Other material aggregates thousands of tons.

"A conservative estimate shows that the storm will cost us upwards of $1,500,000. Fortunately we have a reserve large enough to take care of this expense.

"We have over 3,000 men at work clearing up the wreckage, setting new poles, running lines and connecting telephones. They are doing a big job in an orderly and systematic way. In every section we are making rapid progress, but our task is tremendous.

menhous. Already toll service in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island is nearly normal. In the western part of Massachusetts about 25 per cent of the toll circuits have been restored with temporary construction.

"In Greater Boston we have connected about 5,000 telephones and we hope to restore service to about 10,000 others during this week. In other cities and towns local service is being restored as rapidly as possible.

"Every available man who can be spared has been rushed from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont and a number of toll line crews and trucks have come from New York, Pennsylvania and other states to help in Massachusetts. We have been able to relieve the employment situation to the extent of taking on temporarily over 1,000 unskilled men to do salvage work, dig post holes and assist in stringing wires.

"Our men are out to break all previous records in an emergency and they are going to do it.

"With so many poles and wires down, scores of towns were completely isolated from communication with surrounding communities. We had to work quickly and so we adopted the method used during the war and laid our covered wires by the roadside. Later all these lines must be placed on poles after the new poles have been erected, and still later the wires must be tightened and work spots located and fixed.

A new underground cable between Boston and Worcester was planned long ago. All the conduit is laid and a new cable containing 162 talking circuits will be in service within a few months.

"Our men were quick to devise new ways of routing toll calls. Within a few hours a Boston to Portland line was established by way of Rochester and North Conway, N. H., a Boston to Springfield line by way of Providence and Hartford, and a Worcester to New York line by way of Boston to New York under ground. These are typical of many roundabout routes as substitutes for direct toll circuits.

"Toll circuits from Burlington, White River, Bellows Falls, Rutland and Keene were immediately connected with our underground cable at Lowell and brought into Boston, thus establishing communication to points north.

"Our multiplex line between Boston and Bangor, which makes possible two telephone conversations on one pair of wires, was badly damaged, but in less than a week we had it working, stringing several miles of wire along the ground to bridge a section destroyed by the storm.

"To illustrate how earnestly our plant men are working, here is a typical incident reported from Haverhill.

A combination man named Coleman went to work at 2 o'clock in the morning. About 12 hours later we asked him to go to Brandy Brook, about three miles from Haverhill, and connect five Boston to Portland circuits. With no supper, his 'fiver' frozen, he worked on a pole by the light of a lantern until 9 p. m., when the job was done.

"In our business we call that the spirit of service."

FOR DISABLED VETERANS "THE MANGER THRONES"

Arrangements for Observance of Christmas in Song to be Given by Chorus of 70 Voices

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for the Christmas observance to be staged by Chapter 5, Disabled Veterans Association of America next Saturday. In a day or two the advisory committee will be announced which will work in conjunction with the association's committee.

A program will be announced later. It is expected that the observance will be held at the local chapter of the association. At least 500 young ladies will be needed to aid in the distribution of the observance. It has not yet been definitely decided whether or not a tug or flower will be used. It is believed artificial flowers will be ready for use.

One half of the funds collected go to the local chapter and the other half to the national association. The funds here are utilized in the many comforts needed for disabled service men. At the present time 150 members are enrolled in the local chapter which was instituted about two weeks ago. It is estimated there are 500 men in Lowell and vicinity eligible to join. A drive will be started in a week for members.

Judge Marks of Chelmsford, a supreme court advocate, is national commander of the association. He was wounded seven times in the Argonne. The committee arranging for the observance includes Harry E. Sullivan, chairman; Harry E. Sullivan, secretary; John Sullivan and John J. Wallace. Young ladies who are willing to help next Saturday are asked to communicate with the chairman by calling 1033-W on the telephone.

Y. M. C. I. PLANS WINTER ACTIVITIES

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. I. yesterday morning plans were discussed for the coming social events. The meeting was well attended and three new members were admitted and seven propositions read.

Announcement was made by the election commission of the institute that on next Sunday nominations for the various offices would be closed and that at the annual election the voting hours would be extended. The institute, which has been advertised, will be postponed until Dec. 21, as there was some difficulty in arranging for the orchestra which had been mentioned.

The committee in charge of the coming minstrel show was enlarged to 12, and two ticket selling teams have been organized, the losing team to settle for a theatre party after the show. Team A is captained by Charles Connors and Team B by Peter Finerty.

A communion breakfast and meeting of the St. Vincent de Paul society was held in the Y. M. C. I. quarters.

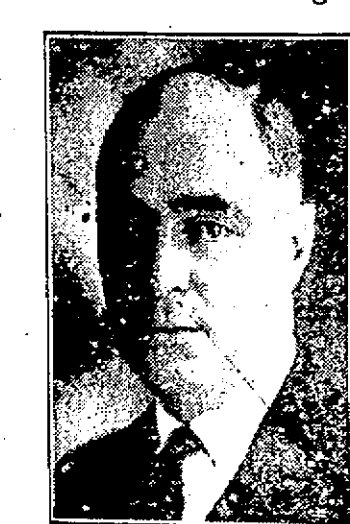

John Perry, Jr. For School Committee

Graduate of Lowell High School and Northeastern College School of Law. Taught two years in the Lowell Evening High School, Principal of the Edison Evening School for ten years. Connected with the General Savings Bank for the last twenty years.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. I. yesterday morning plans were discussed for the coming social events. The meeting was well attended and three new members were admitted and seven propositions read.

Announcement was made by the election commission of the institute that on next Sunday nominations for the various offices would be closed and that at the annual election the voting hours would be extended. The institute, which has been advertised, will be postponed until Dec. 21, as there was some difficulty in arranging for the orchestra which had been mentioned.

The committee in charge of the coming minstrel show was enlarged to 12, and two ticket selling teams have been organized, the losing team to settle for a theatre party after the show. Team A is captained by Charles Connors and Team B by Peter Finerty.

A communion breakfast and meeting of the St. Vincent de Paul society was held in the Y. M. C. I. quarters.

ITALY HAD TO DISARM ALLEGED RUM RUNNERS HELD

No Conference Necessary in Italy's Case, Says Capt. Vittorio Orlandini

Speaking before an audience in St. Anne's church last night, Capt. Vittorio Orlandini of the Italian army said that no conference was necessary for the disarmament program which Italy had planned; for the country either had to disarm or go bankrupt.

Capt. Orlandini said in part: "When one thinks of the perilous geographical disadvantages which Italy has to put up with and then thinks of the strides she has already made toward disarmament both materially and spiritually, little has been left undone in this matter. Her standing army, which was five million strong during the war, has been reduced to a mere 175,000 with a good prospect of a further reduction.

"Her army budget has been reduced while her five dreadnoughts will be soon turned into merchant vessels. One can hardly realize the conditions in my country. There are nearly 700 villages now in a devastated condition while the war debt is of staggering proportions. This condition was brought about by the many hardships inflicted upon the country by Germany.

"It is true that England, France and the United States contributed more but it must also be remembered these countries were rich compared to Italy. "One act of Italy's probably saved the situation at the Marne for the French. At the time of the outbreak of the war Germany and Italy had a treaty of long standing. When the German hordes swept westward and the French could not call upon their whole army to stem the tide of the invaders, for fear of the German-Italian treaty they kept two million men in reserve until Italy refused to enter the war side of Germany. The neutrality of Italy permitted the use of the two million men at the Marne and without these men the battle would have had a sad tale to tell of the Marne.

"Throughout the rest of the war the fortunes of Italy became closely linked with those of the United States. The two countries became stronger and stronger. Now their ideals at the Washington conference are marked by the same sincerity and nobility of purpose. It is the fond hope of both peoples the conference will accomplish its ends."

Haynes, of Lowell, two granddaughters and one great-granddaughter.

CROSS—Hamilton J. Cross, a resident of Manchester, N. H., died yesterday at the Battle home, where he had resided for a year and a half. He is survived by a sister, Miss Mary Cross of South Nashua, N. H.
